SUNDAY CLOSING IS ENDORSED BY CHURCH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 10. —California should have Sunday laws forbidding labor and commercial enterprise on the Sabbath except for public necessity, according to the vote taken by ballot at the Methodist Episcopal church here last night. The vote was twelve to six for the "blue law."

"It is given in the Ten Commandments, which are the foundation of our moral system," Rev. Shamel said in connection with the question, "I believe that if presented with the question in the right light even the pleasure seekers would vote for the Sunday law."

"There are only six states in the Union, of which this state is one, which do not have Sunday laws," he pointed out. "Public necessities such as the water system, gas systems, restaurants, drug stores and even refreshment stands of some characters should be allowed to operate on Sunday if they did not make it a commercial enterprise of their business," he stated.

Only three people voted for the allowing of Sunday dances here. Fifteen cast votes against the measure. "Dances do not keep people away from church," Rev. Shamel declared. "The vice of the public dance on Sunday is that it is a commercial enterprise," he explained. "Bathing, listening to the band concert, a trip to the mountains, a visit with friends is not a vice in all churches and spiritual obligations have been made at the morning service," Rev. Shamel said.

"To say that physical education is taught to the youths of the town at the boxing exhibitions or prize fights held here is not true," said Rev. Shamel. "Blood is almost all ways drawn at the fights," he declared. "We do not protect our selves with our fists nowadays but it is the man with the gun and the mask which we fear," he said.

Hits "Brutal" Fighters. "Records find that many fighters are law breakers," declared Rev. Shamel. "The fights encourage the spirit of the beast in man," he declared.

Card playing and dancing in connection with the church was soundly berated at the meeting. "Dances cause more divorce than any other thing," stated Rev. Shamel.

Unit of Orphans' Asylum Dedicated

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Dedication of the Alexander Goldstein technical training building, a unit of Pacific Jewish Orphan Asylum, 11 Homewood terrace, took place recently. It was marked by simple ceremonies at which Alfred I. Esberg, member of the Board of Education, was the chief speaker. The building, a two-story steel and concrete structure, costing $75,000 is named for Alexander Goldstein, fruit and commission merchant.

Mystery Seen in Battle Over Will

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10. —Under mysterious circumstances which the police have been unable to clear up as yet, Anthony W. O'Connor, salesman of 1034 Sutter street, was stabbed in the abdomen and was removed to the Morton hospital in a condition said to be dangerous.

O'Connor told a story of having been on his way home afoot when two men stepped from a building at Sutter and Larkin streets and struck him over the head. The next he knew, he declared, was when he found himself in bed. He found that he had been robbed of $30.

MINE CONTROLLED HERE IS DEVELOPED

Santa Ana men controlling the St. Lawrence Rand Mining company at Randsburg are in line for development of one of the best producing mining properties in the Randsburg district, according to a statement made today by E. R. Richards, president of the American National bank, a branch of the Bank of Italy.

Returning today from an inspection of the property yesterday, Richards said that recent developments have uncovered large veins of valuable ore. Declaring that a vast amount of pay ore has been blocked out, Richards said that consideration now is being given to location of a forty-ton mill on the property.

Declaring that operation of the mine is under one of the best mining engineers in the field, the banker said that the shaft had been sunk 500 feet, with drifts run every 100 feet. The ore, he says, increases in value as depth is attained.

A group of Santa Ana men at Randsburg yesterday were told by experienced miners that the mine is better equipped with machinery than any of the smaller enterprises in the field.

INFANT BURNED AS AUTO CATCHES FIRE

Badly burned when his father's automobile was destroyed by fire near this city, Onojar Abalos, 4, of Delhi, was at the county hospital today in a serious condition. It was thought, however, that he would recover.

The child was brought to the hospital at 9 o'clock last night suffering with severe burns on the face. His mother, Mrs. M. Abalos, stated that their car had suddenly burst into flame while they were driving along the highway near Santa Ana, and that they had been unable to rescue their children from the car unscathed. A sister of Onojar sustained slight burns on the hands and arms.

"COLORFUL" LIQUOR GRABBED AT BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 10. —Four pints of what is termed by chief of Police J. Tinsley to be "the best in Anaheim" was confiscated when found in the weeds on a vacant lot near the corner of Ocean avenue and Fifth street, by Officers J. Stanton and W. D. Westmoreland late Saturday night.

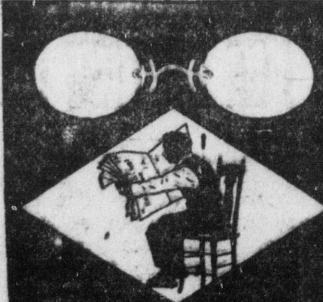

According to the officers their attraction was drawn to the spot by a passing crowd of youths in a car bearing an Anaheim sign who threw an empty bottle into the weeds near the spot. The empty bottle was not found.

The liquor is of various shades and colors from red, orange, and white to a beautiful lemon color and, according to officers here, has a terrific smell by virtue of the yeast cakes which have been dropped into the mixture of fruit juice and extract.

who died April 5, 1921, who had taken an active interest in the asylum, and was erected by his sisters as a monument to his memory.

Sidney Erdman presided at the exercises, which began in the asylum chapel, and were continued in the new building. Henrietta Howard, a pupil at the school, and former protegee of Goldstein, gave the address of welcome.

HOLD ENGINEER AS NINE DEAD IN WRECK

(By United Press Leased Wire)
ERIE, Pa., Dec. 10.—Charles Patterson, a veteran engineer, who for twenty-five years has piloted fast trains without mishap, was the pathetic central figure today of preliminary investigations into the wreck of the Twentieth Century Limited, near here yesterday.

Early Sunday old Charley Patterson, sitting at the throttle of a section of the "Century," shot past signal flares and a danger lantern waved by a frantic flagman and his locomotive jammed into the combination observation-compartment car of another section of the crack train, standing at a grade crossing. Nine persons died and thirty were injured. The railroad places the blame on Patterson.

Patterson, who was uninjured, was taken to the headquarters of Superintendent Brogan here and made a detailed statement. He declared that he only had a quarter of a mile in which to check his train after he saw the first flare.

There was not time enough in which to stop, he said, although he was able to materially reduce speed so that he was not going more than twenty miles an hour when the collision occurred.

The veteran engineer stoutly insisted that he did everything possible to bring his train to a halt. The night was murky and the rails slippery, making his task the more difficult.

The list of dead and injured as given out by the New York Central authorities follows:

Killed: Donovan, W. E. (Wild Bill), Philadelphia, manager of the New Haven, Conn., baseball club; Kinsey, Mrs. C. D., Chicago; Parnell, R. Negro porter; Struman, R. V. Springfield, Ill.; Struman, Mrs. R. V., Springfield, Ill.; Sullivan, Richard, Springfield, Ill.; Sullivan, Mrs. Richard, Springfield, Ill.; Sweet, Otto, 505 Windsor Blvd., Los Angeles; Sweet, Mrs. Otto, Los Angeles.

Injured: Kinsey, Carl D., Chicago, fractured leg and shoulder, cut about head; Weiss, George, president of the New Haven baseball club, New Haven, Conn., laceration of the back, other bruises; Zanft, John, vice-president Fox Film company, New York City; right arm broken, scalp wounds and body bruises; Van Hagen, George E., Chicago, back hurt; Von Hagen, George E., jr., Chicago, slightly injured.

At hospitals here today it was said all the injured were resting satisfactorily.

PLAN FUNERALS FOR L. A. WRECK VICTIMS
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sweet, killed in the Century Limited wreck yesterday, both prominent in local affairs, will be buried here, their bodies arriving Friday.

Sweet was secretary of the Hamburger Department store. His wife was a sister of Moses and David Hamburger, owners of the big firm. Both were members of the city's leading lodges and clubs.

The couple had been on a vacation trip through the East and were enroute home on the ill-fated train.

Rides With Strange Youths, Is Attacked

INGLEWOOD, Dec. 10.—After going for an automobile ride with two youths she did not know, Nora Bowman, 20, of Inglewood was found beside the road near here yesterday in an unconscious condition.

The girl told officers she had been attacked last night by the pair and thrown from the car.

Women now comprise the majority of all employees in the vast textile industry of England.

Colder weather demands warm bedding.

So shall we see life in the large as we respond to His summons on beyond: the towering problems and difficulties of yesterday will sink to the foothills; the glory of life as a whole will unfold before us in unimagined beauty.

ACCEPT MOUNTAIN CAMP FOR Y.M.C.A.

Returning from a week-end spent in the San Bernardino mountains above Redlands, Y. M. C. A. workers of Orange county today announced the acceptance of the site tentatively selected there a short time ago for the location of an Orange county Y. M. C. A. camp. Work of improving the campsite will be started as soon as weather conditions in the mountains permit. T. P. McKee, group secretary of the local organization, stated.

The party, composed of S. H. Finley, J. McMill, and T. P. McKee of Santa Ana; Prof. Henderson of Orange, A. Raitt and Carl Setton of Fullerton, Andrew Moore and George Chessum, representing the county at large, left Santa Ana Saturday morning. They made their headquarters in the mountain cabin of Finley. McKee said that yesterday they had the experience of bucking a heavy snow storm on their way down the mountains.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND J. C. WOMEN'S AIM

A scholarship fund for students to be the next aim of the Southern California Junior College women's organization. It was learned today following the conference of the organization held in the "Y" but last Saturday.

"Junior college students are most worthy aid and some of them sorely need it," Mrs. Robert Northcross, of women of the local college, said today in commending the organization.

The afternoon discussions of the conference resulted in opinions by the college men as to their place in the community and their wish to serve and cooperate with the cities in which they lived.

Eugene Hotchkiss of Klamath Falls, Ore., wrote to his friend T. W. Lyttton, 120 West First street, whom he recently visited, that Orange county "made such a hit with him, that he not only planned to return to Santa Ana to reside, but also intended to try to persuade his father and mother and seven sisters to do likewise. He added that he did not believe it would take much persuasion.

The Rev. Paul Wright, pastor of the First Christian church of Ontario and formerly Orange county probation officer, was a week-end visitor here. The Rev. Mr. Wright, who has scores of friends in Santa Ana and Orange county, reported excellent progress in the work of erecting a new church building in Ontario. The new church will be built on the unit plan and will have ample accommodations for the young people, such as tennis courts, showers, gymnasiums for boys and girls and many other modern features.

The happy couple will be at home in the new, furnished bungalow at 1508 West Second street, which the groom had in readiness. He is a skilled machinist, employed at the R. R. & V. Products Company, while the bride formerly held the responsible position of secretary to the president of the Farmers State Bank, at her home city in Washington. Pretty New Bungalow Offers Setting For Gay Reunion

When Mrs. Lizzie Kentch and Mrs. Nell Jessie entertained late last week at the pretty new bungalow of Mrs. Kentch at 2021 South Main street, they gathered together a group of old-time friends who were employed at the Dragon confectionery several years ago.

After recalling many pleasant affairs of the past and dwelling upon the changes and wonderful growth of Santa Ana, the friendly group enjoyed refreshments of ice cream and cake served by the hostesses.

Included among the guests was Miss Evelyn McQueen of Fresno who arrived recently for an extended visit with her aunt, Mrs. N. L. Kentch. Others enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Kentch and Mrs. Jessie were Mrs. Mary Richardson and daughter Maxine Richardson, Mrs. Carrie Cook and children, Wesley and Herbert Cook, Mrs. Oscar Blake and children Ellen Dee and Bobbie Blake, Mrs. Lois Pearson and children Mildred and Stanley Richard Pearson, and Mrs. Charles L. Mr. Mueller came here from Toledo, Ohio to claim his bride and the happy young couple took their wedding vows before the Rev. George Panschert, pastor of St. Peter Lutheran church. Only the immediate members of the family were present.

The bride was gowned in white georgette, pearl trimmed, and wore a flowing veil with a chaplet of orange blossoms. Her flowers were bride roses arranged in a graceful cluster.

For two years she has been employed as forelady at the Santa Ana Laundry. Mr. Mueller is a brick mason and plans to remain in Santa Ana for the present.

A complete array of famous cooks will preside in the kitchen, those chosen from among the Daughters including Mesdames Margaret Church, Marian Davis, Louane Leech, Lillian Conn, Marie Thurston and Bertha Mott.

Louvre and Cathedral
Of Notre Dame Give
Joy to Travelers

Scores of friends of the J. D. Schmidts of 2209 North Main street, will be interested in the enjoyment they are deriving from their European tour and their delight in exploring Paris where they are now located.

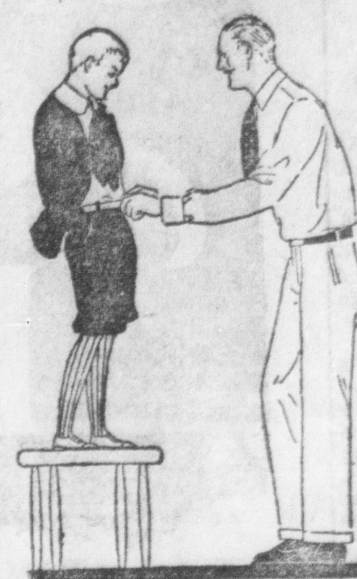

Writing recently to Dr. Mabel Vance Tremaine, Mrs. Schmidt was enthusiastic about the charm of the French capital, declaring that she wished the members of her favorite Fourth Travel section of Ebell society might share her enjoyment of the hundreds of worthwhile places.

"Paris out-of-doors is so beautiful," writes Mrs. Schmidt, "because there is an extravagant number of 'places,' with parks and wide boulevards ornamented with statues and Nature's 'statues,' the trees. 'The Seine, flowing languidly through the center of the city, adds much of interest, for you know there is always a quaint life along a river front. When I return I shall want to tell you about the old book-stalls on the quay. In fact there is so much to see and relate that I fear mental indigestion!'"

"We are staying at a French hotel and go frequently to a French restaurant. Where it is necessary to learn the language or starve, one can do wonders. I know you would all laugh at my efforts to be understood, but under the pang of hunger, I'm acquiring quite a vocabulary. There are places where English is spoken, but why come over here for that? We are after local color."

The Louvre, the cathedral, the many churches are so full of 'what man hath wrought.' I'm so impressed by that fact and also by the extravagant use of time. Gobelin tapestries that are years in the making; intricately carved wooden pulpits, immense in size and of elaborate design; in the Cathedral of Notre Dame, so many beautiful stained glass windows, and every one a gem. If that were not enough, there are the marvelous paintings and the statuary. Life is so short to enjoy it all, and yet not too short to have accomplished it."

Mrs. Schmidt advances the opinion that there are so many who could make the effort to take such a trip with all its wonderful pleasures and advantages were they

SELF-MADE MAN IS INSPIRED BY MELON

WUKWONAGO, Wis., Dec. 10.—The success of many men has been attributed to various strange things, but few, it is believed, have been inspired by the muskmelon, as was A. H. Craig, 76, postmaster here. He asserts that the whole fabric of his life and achievements was built up through inspiration furnished by the melon.

Craig became interested in the melon industry after a series of financial misfortunes, commencing with the failure of a bicycle factory, in which, as a young man, he invested his savings. That failure compelled him to mortgage his home to pay his obligations.

"I wrote to a New York publisher for a job and got one," he explained. "It was to write a book of 450 pages on the subject of debate. The result was Craig's Pros and Cons—an outline of the compensation for writing this book, I gave the publisher the figure represented by the mortgage indebtedness on my home."

Paying off the homestead mortgage with a now widely used book left an empty pocketbook. Casting about for subsistence and health, he took him into the outdoors, and growing things and melon culture suggested itself.

At that time the article was a luxury in the markets of the East. Craig decided to grow a melon that would stand above all others by intelligent and scientific production. He sent to France, Spain and Persia for seeds. His first grew melons with some success but more in failure. He visited Indianapolis and at a city produce market there was attracted by a specimen of provincial melon of the Hoosier state. He bought one for a dime, ate it and saved the seeds. Later he crossed it with one of his own kind.

The result was melons that ran twenty to twenty-four pounds in weight. Craig set out to reduce the size, for as a market melon it was undesirable because of its weight. After years of experimenting a superior product came to being. The first success of a new variety found birth at a banquet given in honor of former President Taft in Minneapolis, where the guests clamored for melons and then more melons.

Sentenced For Passing Bad Bills

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Four members of a California counterfeiting ring, before Federal Judge Dooling admitted passing Federal Reserve bank notes that had been raised from $5 to $20 and three of the gang were given prison sentences, Albert E. Taylor, 22, a native San Franciscan, and confessed leader of the counterfeiting, was sentenced to McNeil Island for three years, Henry P. and George Cannon, brothers were given fifteen months each at McNeil. Alton A. Cannon another brother, confessed complicity in a plot to flood California cities with the raised notes. Owing to the fact that Alton Cannon is but 19 years old, sentence was deferred to Monday, when he will be sent to a reform school, the institution to be designated by Attorney General Daugherty.

Motor Speed Boat Destroyed By Fire

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Fire destroyed a 36-foot motor boat owned by Oscar Zimmerman, 276; San Pablo avenue, Berkeley, endangering several yachts and other craft anchored in the yacht harbor off the Marina and causing a loss believed to total $4500 to the motor boat. The flames burned to the water edge and left nothing but a skeleton of the former expensive speed boat. The fire is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion in the engine room and it took firemen more than an hour to extinguish it.

The boat was to have been entered in a series of races on the bay and, according to John Gutleben, of Alameda, who operated the boat it was one of the most speedy on the bay. The motor may be salvaged.

One Gallon of Milk Per Hundred Persons Is Quota of Berlin

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—Berlin receives each day only one liter of milk for every twenty-five persons living within its confines.

Only 157,000 liters of milk daily are now furnished to Berlin, which has a population of approximately 4,000,000.

Figuring in American measurements, Berlin gets about one gallon of milk daily to every 100 persons—about enough to whiten the black coffee every German drinks every day.

The milk dealers refuse to send their milk to town, as they obtain their money for it only ten or twelve days after they sell it—and the mark meantime crashes ten times into its depths.

The farmer prefers to feed his milk to his pigs or make cheese and butter, or simply throw the milk away, rather than sell it for paper marks which, by the time he gets them, are literally worthless.

With the introduction of stable moneys it is hoped the farmers—who really have plenty of milk and other food products—will send their goods to the city. Negotiations are underway whereby the farmers will get stable pay for their products within the shortest possible time.

POISON BOOZE DEATH CASE IN COURT

Preliminary hearing of a manslaughter charge against A. P. Monahan, Huntington Beach oil worker, and Frank A. Gilroy of Los Angeles, who are accused of selling "poison booze" that was blamed for the death of Joe Conroy, Huntington Park glass worker, was still in progress this afternoon before Justice J. B. Cox, after occupying the entire morning session of court.

The chief witness against Monahan and Gilroy at today's hearing was Torgo Anderson, fellow worker of Conroy and his companion on a recent motor trip, during which the liquor was said to have been purchased and which culminated when Conroy's dead body was taken from the car, after they had stopped at Westminster in the early morning hours to "get warm."

Under questioning by Chief Deputy District Attorney C. N. Mozley, Anderson recounted the events of the trip. He said that Joe Rowan, a third member of the party, purchased the liquor they got in Los Angeles before starting for Huntington Beach. He could not, therefore, identify Gilroy as the man who sold them the alleged liquor. Rowan's testimony was expected by the state to link Gilroy to the case.

Anderson testified that after they reached Huntington Beach he purchased whiskey that Monahan, he said, secured from them "from a tree along the road." The witness revealed also that after Monahan had left them they returned to the tree and Conroy, Anderson said, stole three more bottles of liquor from "the tree."

Rowan, he said, left him and Conroy at Huntington Beach. They started to drive back to Los Angeles, he said. Conroy partook freely of the contents of bottles secured from "the tree," the witness stated. Anderson, himself, he said, didn't like the smell of the alleged liquor and, therefore, took only several small "nips," hardly an ounce in all.

When they halted at a house at Westminster to "get warm," Anderson said he discovered that Conroy was dead.

Man Accused in Girl Case Under $2000 Bail

Bernard Nelson of Alhambra was at liberty today under $2,000 bail, while awaiting preliminary examination on a charge of committing a statutory offense against a 17-year-old La Habra girl.

Attorney H. S. Farrell, representing Nelson, posted a check covering the bail. Nelson's hearing is set for January 9 in Justice J. B. Cox's court.

Orange Man Fined $25 Here on Drunk Charge

John F. Baragray of Orange today paid a fine of $25 in Justice J. B. Cox's court, where he appeared on a charge of being drunk, in violation of a county ordinance. Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Ed McClellan and Deputy Louis Heffner arrested Baragray on the county park boulevard yesterday.

Fidelity Promise Is Violated, Says Wife In Divorce Suit Here

Charges of infidelity were hurled at Roscoe Sawyer, Anaheim real estate man, in a complaint by his wife for divorce, on file today in the superior court here.

Claiming that they separated once before their final break because her husband was, she alleged, untrue to her, Mrs. Beatrice Sawyer, the wife, stated that a reconciliation was effected on the promise of Sawyer to mend his ways. He failed to keep the asserted promise she charged.

The Sawyers married in Hillsboro, Texas, in 1901, and separated in September, 1922. They have three children, two of them being minors for the support of whom the wife asks a "suitable sum." She claims that Sawyer has extensive property interests and cash. Attorney O. A. Jacobs appears as counsel for the plaintiff.

Christmas Gifts

FANCY TRAY
Every housekeeper finds a great deal of use for a fancy tray, and the most useful are those with a decorative value as well as a utilitarian one.

Perhaps the cheapest way to assemble one is to buy an inexpensive picture in a plain wooden wooden frame. Then remove the picture and insert in its place a decorative piece of wall paper. Then paint the frame to match the high tone of the paper and add a couple of brass handles, and you have a distinctive gift.

If you use a paper with a flashy colorful design, it will make a nice spot of color in the dining room when placed against the wall.

Noted Lens Maker Takes Own Life

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 10. — Dr. James N. McDowell, whose body was found in the workshop here where he had directed the making of some of the most important astronomical lenses in the world, ended his life by taking poison, according to a burial certificate issued today. Worry over the completion of a 26-inch lens for Yale University observatory was given by close friends as the cause.

The lens which Dr. McDowell was finishing for Yale observatory was to have been his masterpiece, he had told his friends. He had devoted much time to it, and often slept in the shop so he might give it his best efforts in the early morning.

ICEMAN GETS $10,000
ST. LOUIS, Dec. 10. — William Jeff, iceman, has been left $10,000 by the will of Mrs. Margaret B. Hedges. She was a widow and a recluse with about $25,000 worth of property. The iceman advised her in investments and in twenty-seven years she increased the value of her estate to $112,000.

Bootleggers Warned to Pay Revenue Tax

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10. — Notices demanding that bootleggers convicted of violating the national prohibition law show cause why they should not be penalized for failing to pay the internal revenue tax on sales of liquor, are being sent out to thousands of illicit dealers, according to John C. Reid, assistant legal adviser in the prohibition office. Reid recently came to San Francisco from Washington to take charge of the work.

In the future, bootleggers who plead guilty in order to get off with a light fine by saving the government the time and expense of prosecuting them, will face penalties for selling liquor without paying the stamp tax. Their pleas of guilty will be taken as admissions that they have been trading without paying the internal revenue tax.

Maltese Children to Learn Italian

MALTA, Dec. 10. — The bill by which the teaching of both English and Italian is made compulsory from the fifth year of a child's school life, and which received the royal assent by order in council, dated October 10, has been promulgated. As it passed the Upper House and received the royal assent, the bill enacted that the Italian language which is compulsory in higher and secondary education, should be taught in elementary schools only from the third standard upwards—that is, from the fifth year of the Maltese child's school life.

Jewels Valued At $2500 Thieves' Loot

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10. — Jewels worth $2500 were stolen from Mrs. Julius K. Friedberger, 1106 Bush street, according to a report made by her to the police. Nothing else in the place was disturbed and there were no clues left to show how the apartment was entered.

Mrs. Friedberger told police that she went out shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and when she returned at 6:30 the jewels were gone. They were in a bureau drawer and, though other valuables were in the same drawer, only the jewelry was taken. The missing jewelry consisted of a platinum ring set with one large diamond and four smaller diamonds worth $1000; one platinum bracelet set with thirty-nine diamonds worth $1000 and one platinum bar pin set with forty diamonds worth $500. Friedberger is a manufacturer's agent at 323 Market street.

Attempted Burglary Sentence Suspended

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10. — Upon the plea that Harvey Walker, longshoreman, 22, was the sole support of his widowed mother and two younger sisters, Superior Judge Roche gave the youth a suspended sentence when he was brought before the court on a charge of attempting burglary. Walker was shot twice in the arm by Policeman McMahon the night of September 2, last, when the patrolman caught him in an alleged attempt to rob the home of Paul Martz at 501 Anderson street.

LIBRARY BOARD TO BARE PLAN AT MEETING

Definite action regarding the proposed enlargement and improvement of the present Santa Ana public library, corner Fifth and Sycamore streets, is expected at the meeting of the library board tonight. Dr. C. D. Ball, chairman of the board was out of the city today and other members declined to outline their plans, until after the reports of a committee that recently met with the City Planning commission had been read.

Mrs. W. B. Tedford, member of the board, intimated, however, that she would favor any suggestion of immediate relief for conditions now existing. Waiting for the construction of a civic center before making any enlargement would be a mistake, she indicated.

Mrs. Tedford said that it will be sometime before plans for a civic center can materialize and that the need for more room at the library is immediate. She said that she believed that such enlargement could be done at present with little difficulty and at a moderate cost.

J. S. Smart declined to state his opinion. He said that he did not think that it would be possible for him to attend the meeting.

Cripple and Boy Guide Hit by Auto

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10. — True to the traditions of the Columbia park boys of San Francisco, which imply duty even at the risk of life, George Brown, 13 years old, performed an act which may cause him to be a cripple for life, and the object of his solicitude, Walter A. Davis, crippled news vendor, may die from injuries received in Oakland when an automobile struck him and his youthful defender.

Davis, who is 71, hesitatingly started across Grove street at Nineteenth street, when Brown offered to trundle the wheel chair and its occupant across the street. Thankfully Davis accepted, but when half way across the street an automobile driven by W. H. Roling, of 306 Sixty-third street, Oakland, crashed into the chair and its youthful trundler. Davis was hurled to the pavement, sustaining a fracture of the skull. The boy incurred injuries to his spine, it was stated at the Oakland Emergency hospital, which may cripple him for life.

Mission Work Continues In Caucasian Countries

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 8. — The American board of commissioners for foreign missions has decided not to abandon missionary work in Turkey.

The board also will continue work among Turkish refugees in Greece, Syria and the Caucasus. The decision was embodied in a resolution.

Red Hill Placer Mine is Leased

WEAVERVILLE, Dec. 10. — Milton White and Leo White have taken a lease on part of the Red Hill placer mine, below Junction City, and will begin work as soon as the winter rains come. Gerald O'Shay is operating the main part of the Red Hill. A. Edward Paulsen, a broker of New York city, spent the week in Lewiston with his mother, Mrs. Louisa M. Paulsen. Twenty men are employed in the Nugget Bar placers near Minersville. This has become the most important hydraulic mine in Trinity county. The property was known formerly as the Unity mine. Three gold dredgers are operating on Trinity river, near Lewiston. A fourth dredger is at work far up the river, near Trinity Center.

Berliners Balk at Dog Muzzling order

BERLIN, Dec. 10. — A war of words is raging in Berlin between women who own pet dogs on one side and the police and non-owners of dogs on the other. It was started when the police put into effect an order requiring all dogs to be muzzled and kept on leash when in the streets. The women dog fanciers charge that this is simply a means of persecuting them for taking the muzzles off their little pets and letting them loose for a run in the turgarten.

The war of words is being conducted through the medium of communications to the newspapers.

S. F. POISON PEN PLOT LAID TO U. S. FRESHIE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—An investigation of an alleged "poison pen" plot in the bay district, involving ten wealthy families, according to the police, led to the arrest of 17-year-old Gustav William Beckh, University of California freshman student, in Berkeley. The arrest was made by Berkeley police, working with the postal authorities, following the setting of a trap by one of the victims of the letters Beckh is alleged to have written.

Beckh, according to police reports in Berkeley, has confessed to writing the letters. The reason he gave was that he wrote them by impulse and expected to derive some pleasure out of the replies he would receive. All letters sent out were signed "M. Meyers, General Delivery, Berkeley, Calif."

Henry W. Dodge, a Victim
Henry Washington Dodge, 1284 Chestnut street, San Francisco, to whom one of the slanderous letters was addressed, is said to have set the trap which resulted in Beckh's arrest. Dodge answered the letter he received, and when it was delivered at Berkeley postoffice, Beckh was arrested. Dodge is city superintendent of the local office of the Mutual Life Insurance company.

Wives of the prominent men to whom letters were sent were made the victims of Beck's alleged attack.

Other Names Withheld
The names of other victims of Beck's alleged plot were not made known by Berkeley police. According to the latter, no charges will be filed against Beckh, Dodge and Gillispie are said to have told the police that because of the boy's extreme youth and standing at the university they would not prosecute the case. Beckh says he will write letters apologizing to the men for his actions.

Berkeley police say they will give Beckh insanity tests before he is turned over to postal authorities for any action they wish to take. Several unmailed letters were found in Beckh's possession when arrested.

Aristocratic Nose Berlin's Newest Fad

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—A craze for aristocratic noses is a new fad in Berlin. It only costs $500 and three days in the hospital to have a pug nose and an old fashioned Roman olfactory appendage of the most aggressive Hebraic persuasion trimmed up into an amazingly shapely and distinguished nose.

Bridal Gown Lost On Way to Wedding

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—To labor faithfully and carefully for months on a trousseau, bring it all the way from Norway to San Francisco and then, on the eve of her wedding, find instead of a bridal gown and veil a carpenter's chest filled with tools, was the experience of Mrs. Albert Jensen, 1632 Bush street. In her disappointment at being unable to appear decked out in the finest lace in honor of the occasion, the bride, formerly Miss Dagmar Larsen, almost decided there would be no wedding.

But Jensen finally persuaded her that a veil was not absolutely necessary and Travelers' Aid workers helped her to improvise a wedding outfit. The wedding took place recently.

When the young woman left the steamer at New York a gallant young carpenter bound from Norway to New Orleans volunteered to check her baggage to San Francisco. He made a mistake and sent the bride's trunk to New Orleans and all she got was his ugly chest of tools on which the railroad company asked her to pay $22 excess baggage.

HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Mrs. Lillian Hynes, 643 Hayes street, was thrown from an automobile and suffered a sprained back and cuts and bruises when the machine skidded at Jones and Market streets and struck her track excavation. She was treated at the Central Emergency Hospital. The machine was being driven by James L. McKenna, of 440 Lily avenue.

IRRIGATE NOW IS ADVICE TO WALNUT MEN

Advocating winter irrigation as one of the surest means of preventing spring dropping of walnuts, Harry W. Lewis, president of the Santa Ana Walnut Growers' association, today urged all Orange county growers to avail themselves of the low rates now prevailing for water and make liberal use of it during December, January and other winter months.

"We, as walnut growers, are very anxious to prevent spring dropping of walnuts," said President Lewis, "and we feel that one of the best ways to accomplish this is to make liberal use of water during the winter. Dr. L. D. Bachelder, Farm Advisor H. E. Wahlberg and other soil moisture experts have advised us that this is the safest course to follow."

"During the past three years, according to the records of the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company, very little irrigating has been done during January and February. As this seems to be one of so-called dry years, we feel that all growers should give serious consideration to this problem and make use of the water at the low rates now possible."

"Last year very little water was run before March 15. By that date nearly all growers, including the citrus growers, were needing water and needing it badly. This necessitated, not only the operation of pumps, but resulted in the purchase of water from individual pumping plants and ran the rate up to $1 an hour. "If the peak load can be distributed over two or three months, the price of water can be maintained at 40 cents an hour for 100 inches. We should avail ourselves of this aid at this time."

CANNON TAKING LIFE EASY IN QUIET HOME

DANVILLE, Ill., Dec. 10.—Questions concerning the European imbroglio and presidential candidacies have no part in the life today of Uncle Joe Cannon. Danville's Grand Old Man, who voluntarily retired last March from public life after 50 years in congress.

The things that most concern Uncle Joe are the chances of filling his hand or confusing his opponents with a "picture book" or an "all blue" hand in a friendly game of poker, or of avoiding too many trips to the "bone yard," in the games of dominoes he plays with members of his family.

Twice weekly three or four of Uncle Joe's old cronies meet with him, sometimes at his home and sometimes at their homes, for a real battle with the pasteboards, or, as Uncle Joe characterizes it, "Discussion of the right of property."

And these old cronies remark the morning after that Uncle Joe apparently has lost none of his skill in poker which he acquired during his 50 years in Washington, when many a vital question of national importance was discussed and settled over a hotly contested game of poker.

Uncle Joe Cannon belongs in a past era. For him the sun is near the horizon. It is not the friends of the heyday of his career who greet him now on the streets—it is his sons and grandsons.

Silent on Fast

His attitude toward life and the affairs of the world is best described by the one word, "detached." He does not dwell in the past, nor does he speak much of it, unless the subject is brought up in his presence. Neither does he talk of the affairs of the state, the nation or the world, unless pressed, and then he is apt to dismiss the subject with a few words.

Uncle Joe keeps in touch with affairs by reading the daily papers morning and night. He daily visits his bank, the Second National, and spends an hour, maybe two, with the officers and directors, even stops and chats with the humblest patron.

He walks to and from his home to the bank without assistance, despite his 87 years. He carries a cane, but the stick is yet subservient to his will.

Uncle Joe arises at 8 o'clock in the morning, breakfasts leisurely, reads his still voluminous correspondence and the morning papers and then walks to the bank. Frequently he returns home before lunch, in time to enjoy a game or two of dominoes, of which he is quite fond, with members of his family. After luncheon he enjoys a ride in his automobile, almost daily going out in the country to a flowing well and securing a supply of drinking water for the home.

He partakes of dinner at night with the members of his family and reads the evening papers, after which, if no friends have dropped in for a chat for a game of cards, he enjoys the program on his radio before retiring for the night. He enjoys his radio outfit, but still curses fluently when a bedtime story gets switched on in place of the expected concert number.

Attends Quake Church

Occasionally Uncle Joe drives on Sunday to Annapolis, Ind., 50 miles away, his boyhood home, and attends the quaint old Quaker church. It was his father's church, really located at Bloomington, a mile from Annapolis, but no longer is he greeted by the bearded men who played with him as a boy. It's their sons and grandsons who shake hands with him and inquire after his health.

He still recalls with interesting anecdotes the struggling days as a young lawyer at Shelbyville, Ind., where he practiced for a year without receiving one cent from a client, and from where he went to Tuscola, because he had no money to pay his railroad fare further.

Uncle Joe's leisure hours are spent in his capacious library, from the walls of which framed photographs, autographed, of Roosevelt, Cardinal Gibbons, Ambassador Jusserrand and other noted friends of other days smile down at him. The walls are also decorated with the original drawings of dozens of cartoons, most of which show Uncle Joe with his famous long black stogie.

In connection with his famous stogie, it is interesting to know that Uncle Joe has quit the use of tobacco and coffee. He gives no reason for becoming a total abstainer; simply says he quit because he didn't see where they were benefitting him any.

For Good Republican

Uncle Joe has no comment to make on the presidential situation. He says he simply doesn't care who runs, provided he is a good Republican. He is still sought for advice and favors and a contemplated removal of the United States marshal's office from Danville to East St. Louis has been held up pending the final word from Uncle Joe. But, all in all, Danville's famous statesman is living a life of ease and retirement, viewing life and the world from the sidelines in a detached manner.

For Uncle Joe, life is no longer an onward and upward journey. Its course is now downward, its pathway as placid as loving relatives and friends can make it.

Beauty of South America Returning

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—San Francisco captured the heart of pretty Miss Julia Quinonez, niece of Alfonso Quinonez, president of Salvador, who sailed on the Pacific Mail liner, Venezuela, for home after spending seven years in this city attending Sacred Heart college. She said that she hoped to return to San Francisco after visiting her parents.

I arrived in San Francisco seven years ago as a stranger in a strange city, said Miss Quinonez, "but I was only here a short time when the warmth and hospitality of the people here removed all feelings of homesickness."

More than a score of classmates of Miss Quinonez were on hand to wish her bon voyage and the pretty Central American beauty's state-room was banked with flowers.

Miss Quinonez said that while she graduated from Sacred Heart four months ago, she had immediately entered into a position with a local business concern until she was ready to leave for home.

Whether or not Miss Quinonez will enter business in Salvador for a short time before returning to San Francisco is problematical, she said, but added that she did not intend to be idle during her absence.

Pretty Nurse Goes Abroad; All Sick

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—Mal de mer, being polite French for seasickness, threatens to become an epidemic on the calm Pacific with the advent of Elizabeth Street, who with nurse's training and a bad case of wanderlust, is in San Francisco with the firm intention of becoming official caretaker of ailing passengers aboard an ocean liner.

Miss Street, a slim brunette of considerable personality, was a recent graduate of the Mercy hospital training school for nurses at Baltimore. She is a Maryland girl with Maryland's charm of accent. Having survived the discipline of training years the girl packed her trunk and came to San Francisco, prepared to make her profession her passport around the world.

"San Francisco seemed the port from which to make my start," she said.

Wanderlust is a family characteristic, according to Miss Street.

Her brother is an engineer aboard a merchantman. His tales of adventure and sights to be seen in foreign lands stirred the craving for travel in the mind of the student nurse. When the nurse's diploma was placed in her hand the round the world resolve was made.

"My brother had written to me so much of what he had seen that I resolved that I would go to see those strange places myself," she said. "And here I am, ready to start."

Girl Takes Her Life Over Broken 'Date'

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 8.—Lula Blouse, 16 years old, committed suicide at her home here following a telephone conversation with a boy friend. She placed the muzzle of a loaded shotgun against her breast and pulled the trigger with her foot.

Relatives say her boy sweetheart had failed to keep an engagement with her.

Driver Splits His Lip When Car Falls 20 Feet

CHESTER, Pa., Dec. 8.—Crashing into two houses at the foot of a hill, then into a drum of tar, after which his automobile tore away thirty feet of bridge railing, followed by the machine somersaulting from the roadway into a field twenty feet below, Clement J. McGovern, son of a leading merchant of Chester, escaped with only slight lacerations of the lip.

Diving Champion Weds Beauty Pageant Winner

ATLANTIC CITY, Dec. 8.—Elopement of Miss Saunders member of the court of beauty at the recent national beauty pageant here, and Oswald Tomlin, diving champion and son of a wealthy contractor, was admitted by the couple. They were carried at Elkton, Maryland.

They met at the fall pageant here a year ago.

FAITH IN GREAT SOUTHLAND IS REWARDED TO GAS CHIEF

Newspapermen In Tour of County Operations Are Told of Vision

Utility Centered Here Is Among First Rank Due to Development

The fascinating story of how a man's vision of the greatness of Southern California's future carried a company despite almost insuperable obstacles from virtually nothing to where it is today, an $11,000,000 corporation, was being retold once again today in Orange county, birthplace of the big enterprise, following a tour taken last Friday by county newspapermen over a portion of the Southern Counties Gas company system in this district.

Prior to the trip of inspection, Frank H. Bivens of Los Angeles, general agent of the corporation, reminded the newspapermen, assembled at St. Ann's Inn for luncheon as guests of the company, that it was Ferdinand R. Bain, president of the Southern Counties Gas company, who had the faith and courage to proceed with the building up of the business, despite jibes and jeers from the many who had no confidence in the future of natural gas as a fuel.

In paying a ringing tribute to his chief, Bivens recounted how in the early days it was at times found necessary to collect monthly bills from consumers in order to procure sufficient money to "carry on." Despite every discouragement, Bain pushed forward. The result was, Bivens pointed out, that the Southern Counties Gas company had developed until it became one of the front rank public utilities in the Southland.

Find Kewpie Dolls Have Replaced Friend Rolling Pin

Kewpie dolls have been found to be useful, as well as ornamental in the home, said City Marshal Claude Rogers today. The latest use for the little semi-draped statues, Rogers said, is as a weapon in settling family difficulties.

Sergeant Elliott and Patrolman Yoder responded last night to a call from the 1100 block on East Third street to find a Mexican woman having difficulty with her Korean husband.

According to the police, the woman grabbed a Kewpie doll and smashed it over her husband's head, just as they arrived.

No arrests were made as the police said they believed that the woman was capable of handling the situation.

Sounds Like Winter; May Delay Meeting Due to Cold Winds

A meeting of the Teachers' league of this city, scheduled for tonight in the auditorium of the high school may be postponed because of the cold weather, it was indicated today by J. A. Cranston, superintendent of city schools. He said that it had not been definitely decided, however, to postpone the meeting, as there were several matters of importance to be discussed.

A review of reports by delegates to the National Education association conference and world congress, held last July in Oakland and San Francisco, will form the principal part of the program for the meeting of the league. This is the first opportunity that has offered for the presentation of these reports since the opening of the school year.

Husband Sulky, Wife Sues For Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Her husband sulked and would not talk at meals, Mrs. Audrey Branson, 3547 Mission street, stated in her divorce complaint filed here, but he boasted of extreme attractiveness and conviviality when in the company of other women, she added.

Mrs. Branson, charging cruelty, asks $100 a month for herself and three-year-old daughter, Dorothea. She also declares that her husband talked of her too intimately to outsiders and that it became gossip and came back to her.

MOTHER, 88, IN HOSPITAL FUND SACRIFICE

$1. All She Could Spare, Donated For Maternity Equipment Here

"I want to give you a dollar. It is all I have to spare, but I want you to take it and use it. Add it to the fund you are raising. It is a most worthy cause. My one regret is that I have only a dollar to offer."

This, according to Dr. Willella Howe-Waffle, pioneer woman physician, was the touching tribute paid the maternity fund of the Santa Ana Valley hospital by an 88-year-old mother eager to do something to help the great fraternity of mothers in their hour of need.

"She came to me," said Dr. Waffle, "bringing her little all. She said she wanted to lay it on the altar in the name of motherhood. It touched me so deeply I felt like crying."

"But that isn't all. That was on Monday. On Wednesday she came again. This is what she said:

"Since I saw you, I have cashed my pension. I want to give $5 this time—for the mothers."

"I could hardly speak," she said. "Are you sure you can spare it?" She replied:

"Oh yes—the government is good to me!"

"I should like to frame that dollar-bill and hang it in a conspicuous place in our new home for mothers. It was the first dollar brought me as a result of my plea for a fair deal, for mothers in the new hospital we are going to build. If only someone would add ciphers to that dollar until it swells into a sum sufficient to provide for many mothers. That blessed old mother sensed the need of the hour."

According to Dr. Waffle and her associates on the committee appointed to raise funds for the maternity department, $50,000 would not be any too much to carry out the work.

"This money would be invested, as a matter of course," said Dr. Waffle, "and the free beds and other accommodations would be supplied from the interest derived from the fund."

"This is one of our crying needs, for there are scores of young people, eager to do their full share in raising children, who cannot afford to pay a high rate for hospital accommodations for the young mother."

"I, for one, am very anxious to

ARABS DESTROY 'Y' TEXTBOOK STOCK CLAIM

Educational activities of the Y. M. C. A. have been extended even to members of the French Foreign Legion, according to T. P. McKee of Santa Ana branch of the organization. He tells of a bulletin recently received by the office in Santa Ana depicting the activities of the correspondence school established in Berlin by the organization for the instruction of Russian refugees. The bulletin relates difficulties experienced by students who are taking the courses.

A portion of a letter sent to the headquarters of the correspondence course in Berlin by Sergeant Bielowoff of the Legion, telling of an attack by Arabs in the recent Morocco campaign conducted by the Legion, is quoted in the

Wife Told Secrets' Marriage Annulled

Frank Ramirez, ex-vice consul-general for Mexico in San Francisco, declared in Superior Judge Shorall's court during his successful petition for an annulment of his marriage, that his wife had revealed Mexican political secrets he had confided to her, with the result that he was forced to resign from the vice consulship.

Ramirez said that he married Mrs. Corinne Ramirez on October 17 last, after she had come to his rooms in the Pacific States hotel the night before and insisted that she would stay in his apartment until he consented to marry her. After marriage, he testified that his wife told his superior of things concerning the consulate which he had related to her and that as a consequence he had to resign.

Ramirez stated that the Mexican government did not permit consuls or vice-consuls to marry foreign Attorney H. D. Gill.

In Chinese Turkistan there is a famous shrine which is frequented by women only, and especially by girls who offer prayers for rich husbands, without mothers-in-law.

NEW THEATER RUMORS WILL NOT DOWN

Interest of Los Angeles theater men in the possibilities declared to be offered by Santa Ana for a motion picture and vaudeville theater operated by one of the largest theatrical syndicates in the state has not abated. This was indicated today by a local hotel man, at whose establishment Arthur C. McDevitt, investment broker of Los Angeles and representing the theatrical syndicate, spent several days in the city last week, while looking over the field.

McDevitt had made other inspection trips here, it was added by the hotel man, who declared the former planned to return to this city within a few days, accompanied by members of the theatrical firm.

The representative was plain in stating that he was favorably impressed with Santa Ana as a prospective location for one of the theaters operated by the syndicate, it was learned.

Prospective sites here were understood to have been under consideration. The syndicate will not consider a location far from the center of the business district, it was indicated by the rumor that tentative negotiations had been started for a fourth street site. Other sites reported as viewed all were said to have been near the business center.

The syndicate represented by McDevitt at present is operating theaters in several cities in the Southland, and has a program of expansion which would take in several other Southern California cities, the hotel manager who gave the information declared.

5 EXONERATED OF AUTOMOBILE THEFT

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Five youths whom the police captured as automobile thieves turned out to be good Samaritans instead when their case was heard in the police court. Judge McAttee dismissed the charges of robbery against them.

They told the court they found an acquaintance of theirs, S. G. La Baraque of 3776 Twentieth street, in what they thought to be in no condition in which to be driving the rented automobile he had in his possession. They took him home and were starting for the nearest garage with the automobile, they said, when they were arrested by Policemen Moran at Valencia and McCoppin streets.

Moran had been summoned by J. R. De Leon of 2924 Clay street, who, with La Baraque, had rented the car. He had stepped into a cigar store to make a purchase. When he came out he saw five men take possession of the machine and his companion and drive away. The police pursuit and capture followed.

The youths whose cases were dismissed are Joseph Murphy, 20, of 600 Diamond street; Tyrone McQuade, 18, of 65 Beaver street; George O'Connor, 18, of 4165 Twenty-third street; Thomas Plant, 19, of 216 Raymond street, and Andrew Pellon, 19, of 847 Duncan street.

Fortune in Jewels Stolen in London

DONLON, Dec. 5.—The London police were investigating the burglary of the apartment of Mrs. Oakley Maund, a wealthy widow, on Victoria street, Westminster, in which the thieves obtained jewelry estimated to be worth more than $250,000. The burglars entered the apartment in the evening unheard by four servants who were eating a meal in the kitchen and escaped unnoticed.

WEIRD THRILLER, 'R. U. R.', GETS MERITED BOOST ON EVE OF ITS PRESENTATION

According to unqualified recognition to the Santa Ana Community Players' association as a sterling organization and to "R. U. R.", Karel Capek's sensational thriller, as a melodrama entirely worth while, J. A. Cranston, superintendent of city schools here, today announced that the attendance of teachers at any of the four performances of the play beginning at the Temple theater tonight, would count as attendance at a full session of teachers' institute this winter.

The educational staffs in the city's schools were said to be evincing a lively interest in the four productions of "R. U. R.", or "Rossum's Universal Robots", the central theme of which hinges on the theory that it is possible to manufacture mechanical men. The climax of the amazing plot is reached when the "robots", as the mechanical men are called, are manufactured in such quantities as to threaten mankind with destruction.

"There is not a dull moment in the play," declared George Gerwing, assistant director of the Players, who has had entire charge of whipping the thriller into shape. "No melodrama that has ever been seen in Santa Ana can compare with 'R. U. R.' from a standpoint of making audiences feel 'creepy'. In fact, it might be said that the piece, both in conception and execution, is 'diabolically clever'."

Thrill Is Promised.

"The hundreds of school teachers who will see the play, as a result of its having been given institute recognition, will be thrilled as never before, by this remarkable play."

Rain insurance was taken out today by executives of the Players with the Swales and McFadden insurance agency.

Based on a maximum amount of $1000 for the four plays, the insurance company will pay the Players a proportionate amount of the total receipts if one-tenth of an inch of rain falls any evening between 6:30 and 8:30 o'clock.

Gerwing highly praised the various committees of the Players' organization, for their indefatigable efforts of the past few weeks to make "R. U. R." a perfect production from every standpoint.

Efforts Are Praised.

"Unstinted commendation is due Miss Hazel Bemus, technical director, for her untiring attention to the almost illimitable details," Gerwing said. "Too much cannot be said for the heads of the various committees, including Earl Fraser, music; Mrs. Marshall Harnois, scenery; Mrs. Harris, library; Mrs. Freda McFadden, costume; Burr Shafer, house, and others."

POTENTIAL NEW CITIZENS ARE SENT HERE

Back at his old post in the Los Angeles chamber of commerce as a representative of Santa Ana, instead of the county, D. W. McDannald, pioneer and inveterate booster for Santa Ana and Orange county, today declared that old "competent authority" says that in Los Angeles there are now more tourists than ever before and that "picking" is going to be real good for the fellow who is on the ground.

Pointing out that he had an audience of forty-seven "hopefuls" the first day he lectured, and that the number had been increasing day by day, the Santa Ana publicity expert said that in one day sent four persons "clattering down to Santa Ana," two of whom were specially interested in walnut groves and the other in residence locations. He said that he knew definitely of these four coming down and that interest manifested indicated that many others who heard him would come to Santa Ana to view the locality.

Changes Are Made.

Asserting that some of the communities that formerly maintained lecturers and moving pictures at the Los Angeles chamber had

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your fingertips. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also now made in milder form for babies and small children.

Ask for Children's Musterole. 25c and 50c, in jars and tubes.

RUNAWAYS REMOVED FROM REAR OF CAR

FULLERTON, Dec. 10.—A perfectly nice globe-trotting tour, designed to bring joy to the heart of a playmate in San Diego, was rudely broken up when Walter Blowers, 13, and Peter Contoloso, 12, both of Los Angeles, were taken off the baggage rack of a big sedan by Officer Jake Diest, who spotted the youngsters as the car sped through town.

Thinking that it would be nice to pay a surprise visit to their playmate who had recently moved to San Diego, the young travelers started from Los Angeles on foot. Walking wasn't appealing after they had tried it several hours, and they hopped on the baggage rack, unknown to the driver, while the machine was stopped in a traffic jam.

After their parents had been notified, the young adventurers were taken home.

whole Southern part of the state allied up with contented home owners. That will mean increased business for Orange county dealers and the increased business of local dealers will mean increased business for Los Angeles manufacturers and wholesalers. So it works for the good of all to pull together, each community boosting the other as well as boosting itself.
In using the word boosting, I mean plain statements of fact,
for no part of Southern California needs any 'boosting' in the sense in which that word is usually used.""The truth about Orange county is good enough without any extra flourishes or extravagant statements. It is the truth about this county that I intend to incorporate in the forthcoming article in the magazine."It will be of interest to readers to know that Southern California
Business not only goes to every one of the ten thousand members of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, but also is sent broadcast over the entire United States,
Canada and many foreign countries.TRAVELERS SEE EUROPE

Man Taken in S. F. For Fraud in Chicago

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Lawrence Wood was arrested at the Hotel Cecil by Detective Edward Wiskotich on information that he is wanted by the Chicago police for the alleged swindling of E. E. Modine of that city out of $5000. Wood told the police that he had been interested in a business deal with Modine, but denied that he had done anything that could be construed as criminal. He said that he was willing to shoulder any financial responsibility for his conduct, but declared that his arrest was unwarranted. A dispatch from Chicago stated that Wood was wanted by the police there for alleged complicity in a confidence game. Wood was in his room with his young wife when arrested.

Severe Windstorm Does Damage Here Only to Fruit, Is Report

Orange county and Southern California today continued in grip of one of the severest windstorms visiting the Southland in many years. So far as reports from various sources in the county disclose, very little damage has been done, the greatest source of loss probably being done to oranges, resulting from bruising of the fruit by whipping. It was said that possibly some damage has been done to foliage.

A. A. Crawford, wire chief for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, and J. A. Heyer, superintendent for the Southern California Edison company, said no particular damage had been done in the county to either system. Each reported a few poles down at different points, but no serious interruption of service.

Few Travelers. W. G. Knox, superintendent of streets, said that no reports had been made to his office of trees down or tree limbs blown across streets.

A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, anticipated that oranges would be bruised by the storm, but early today had made no investigations, or had heard no reports as to the extent of loss citrus growers may sustain.

Yesterday was a dreary day and Sunday travelers were conspicuous by their absence on the highways. Home was more comfortable and the family circle was "quieter" and more "intact" than is usual when the weather is good and buzz wagons can be operated with more safety and greater comfort to occupants.

The storm is general throughout Southern California, extending as far north, virtually, as the Tehachapi.

Party Halted on Desert. On the desert, wind of forty mile velocity, clouds of desert sand, ten miles from Randsburg, thirty-two miles from Mojave, and a dead engine—this was the predicament a small party of Santa Anans found themselves in yesterday at noon. Hung up for an hour, the stranded Santa Anans were released from the uncomfortable position by the kindly aid of an expert mechanic, who happened along the desert road and found the cause of the engine refusing to bark.

Traffic Halted. The party was composed of Ed H. Richards, president of the American National Bank (branch of the Bank of Italy); F. A. Wilson and B. O. McClain, recent arrivals here from the East and potential Santa Ana manufacturers; C. B. Buxton, local real estate broker, and Horace Fine of The Register.

At many points in Southern California sand storms were so severe that traffic had to halt. According to reports, many of the main roads leading into Los Angeles were blocked by fallen trees and sand.

At San Pedro, it was reported the sea was so rough that women were not permitted passage in launches running out to the warships. It was said that the wind was so strong that particles of debris were blown on the decks of war craft.

Autos Turn on Lights. Between Santa Ana and Ocean side it is said that there were periods when floating sand and dust was so thick that motorists had to turn on their lights to warn approaching drivers. It is said that at El Toro tents of a gypsy camp were scattered and the camp disrupted.

According to reports today from San Diego, Lieutenant Albert Dupuy, flying a large plane from Los Angeles harbor to San Diego, attempted to get above the sand storm by going to an elevation of 7000 feet. Reports say that at that elevation he still was in swirling clouds of dust and could not goad to greater height.

Door Bell Ringing To Show Police On Job Hit by Women

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 6.—Women in the northern part of this town admit they never see a policeman, but they believe they are always around. When a delegation made charges to the city council that they never saw a policeman, Chief of Police Moyer made a novel proposition to prove the efficiency of his patrolmen. "Let the policeman ring your doorbell every time they pass, then you will know they are on duty," Moyer advised. The women, having visions of being frequently awakened at night, declined the proposition. The council then concluded the policemen were doing their duty.

Parents Cautioned By Auburn Jurist

AUBURN, Dec. 10.—Parents should give their daughters a little good old-fashioned work to do when school is not in session and should remember it is yet their function in this modern age to supervise the activities of children who have not reached the age of discretion, Superior Judge J. B. Landis, sitting on the Juvenile Court bench, told the parents of Hazel and Susie Miles, who he placed on probation after they stated they had taken a two-day trip with Dan Hurley and John F. Stanley, local youth. They asserted liquor had been given them during the trip.

Mail Pilot, Lost in Sierras, Reaches Home

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—Claire K. Vance, air mail pilot, who was reported missing Saturday, arrived here unharmed but severely fatigued from his experiences. He had been forced to land in the mountains of Placer county Friday night when he encountered a severe storm over the Sierras, and did not reach communications until late Saturday night.

WILL CASE GIRL STRIDES MADE REPUDIATES 4 AS HER KIN BY EDUCATION IN 10 YEARS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Concluding her testimony, which extended over a period of two days, Viola S. Bell positively declared that Robina Bell Hessel, Muriel Foster, Reginald Bell and the late Eustace Bell were not her brothers and sisters, or the children of her mother, Mrs. Teresa Bell, over whose $750,000 estate a contest is now being waged before Superior Judge Dunne. In brief, the woman claiming to be the sole heir, described the advent of each into the Bell household.

Theresa Reginald and Muriel were supposed to be twins, they were found to be infants of visibly different ages, she testified. Reginald was an 8 or 9 months old infant, able to creep, when he first entered the Bell home, while his twin sister at the same time was a much smaller and younger child, Miss Bell testified.

Robina Bell Hessel, the witness declared, was a 4-months-old infant at the time she first entered the Bell home, while Eustace was 2 weeks old. A picture of Eustace, exhibited by attorney Leo McHenry and Alexander O'Grady for the purpose of showing a lack of resemblance between him and other members of the family, was introduced.

The session was devoted almost entirely to a rigid cross-examination of Miss Bell by McNab and Schlesinger, who failed to shake her from her original testimony and contentions in the petition for distribution of the estate to her. It was brought out that not only Viola Bell left the "Mystery Mansion," home of the Bells at Bush and Octavia streets, but that all of the other children had left by 1899, going to a house at 1611 Buchanan street, which Viola Bell visited.

Explaining her reasons for not appearing in the legal battles that thirty years ago, a period of which she had been legally advised to wait until the estate of Teresa Bell came up for final distribution, at which time she would be notified, inasmuch as she was a pre-terminated heir, or one not mentioned in a will, she legally entitled to a portion thereof. To substantiate her claims Attorney George K. Ford, her former counsel, will be called to the stand today.

Attorney McNab attacked the character of Eugene Augrey, private detective for Miss Bell, whom he asserted was to get 50 per cent of the portion of the estate his client might win. The witness denied it, admitted that she was to have given him 30 per cent, but later destroyed the contract with him on mutual consent.

Explaining the circumstances which prompted her to change her name to Smith, she declared that she was first named Viola Smith Bell, being given the middle name in honor of her father's intimate friend. When the family became notorious, she said, she decided to drop the name Bell and be known as Smith.

S. B. Clayburgh, prominent local merchant, took the stand in behalf of Miss Bell, and testified that he had played at the Bell home with the children, and that Viola was always regarded as one of the family. She was known only as Viola Bell, he said.

Testimony was also offered by Mrs. Virginia Raskin, French teacher of the child, who declared that she was hired to teach Viola languages in the College of the Holy Name, and that Marie Bell had referred to her as a sister. Similar testimony was offered by Mrs. Mary E. Maggart of Oakland, who attended the Holy Name convent, and by Mrs. Annie Diaz, who attended the St. Roses Academy with Marie and Fred Bell.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—A great popular awakening to the significance of education has taken place in the past ten years, and a desire has been manifested in many quarters to know definitely the objectives of public education and to find out just how effectively our schools are organized and equipped for the attainment of these objectives, said John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education, in his annual report, which was made public today. To satisfy this demand, scientific inquiry into school conditions is necessary, and this study is the duty of the United States bureau of education, he said. It is required by law to collect information about education in the United States and foreign countries and to disseminate this information to promote the cause of education throughout the country, he added, declaring: "The bureau is primarily an agency for service to educators and to the general public, and most of its work in the field has been undertaken at the request of the school authorities in the various states, though some of it has been done on its own initiative to obtain needed information and to keep abreast of educational developments."

Of all branches of field work, educational surveys are probably the most far-reaching effect, and the bureau has taken a leading place in the movement for the furtherance of these surveys. Having conducted surveys in nearly every state in the Union, the members of the staff now represent the collective judgment gained by years of experience in survey work in all parts of the country. The bureau possesses unique qualifications for service of this type, in that it is able to approach each situation without bias or partisanship.

PRICES IRREGULAR ON CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Grain prices closed irregular on the Chicago board of trade today.

Recovering from the sinking spell which gripped the market at opening of trade, wheat regained some of its early losses with good buying pressure.

Corn met good local buying on all sides and with the strength in wheat moved fractionally over the opening.

Predicted rains and snow over the central area for tonight and tomorrow caused fears for the present crop.

Oats were dull and neglected all day. The close showed a fractional downturn.

Provisions firmed up on reports of heavy clearances for export.

Little hope was held today by attending physicians for the recovery of Mrs. Maude Russell, 42, of Long Beach, who was injured in an automobile crash at Tustin Friday night. The injured woman has developed pneumonia which, according to physicians, makes her recovery extremely doubtful. Mrs. Russell, who is at the Community hospital, is unconscious, it is said.

Mrs. Mabel Oliver, 45, of San Francisco, and sister of Mrs. Russell, was driving the car at the time of the accident and who received several cuts and bruises. Will recover, and can be removed from the hospital within a short time, physicians said.

According to Mrs. Oliver the crash occurred when her foot slipped from the brake to the accelerator and the car struck a truck driven by A. M. Lauer of the Coast Truck line.

Mrs. Russell received a basal fracture of the skull, a fracture of the lower jaw, and broken ribs, and other injuries when she was thrown through the windshield.

COOLIDGE ASK BIG BUDGET REDUCTION

Mr. Coolidge opened his budget message with a concise review of the country's finances since the war. He pointed out that since August, 1919, when the national debt was at its peak of $26,500,000,000, it has been reduced nearly $4,500,000,000. He then plunged immediately into his recommendations for tax reductions.

HOLD FUNERAL FOR FORMER TEACHER

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the Gillogly and Schmidt funeral home in Orange, was held the funeral service for Miss Myrtle Thompson, whose death Friday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Thompson of Orange, brought sadness to many hearts throughout the community.

Miss Thompson had endeared herself to scores of Santa Ana as a teacher in Orange schools, her health made it necessary to seek less strenuous employment and she entered the office of Dr. R. A. Cushman in the Spurgeon building.

There her friendliness and never-failing courtesy aided her in establishing an enviable place in the community.

A graduate of Orange Union high school, she continued her education at the state normal school, and later graduated from Occidental college before taking up teaching, her chosen work.

With a temporary return to Cushman's office, she left for New Hampton, Mass., where she entered Smith college for social service work. Just two weeks before her graduation in July, 1922, her health broke and she was forced to remain in the hospital for many months, only able to be brought to her Orange home last June, faced with the knowledge that her fight for health was a losing one.

During the subsequent months of suffering, Miss Thompson bore herself with a beautiful Christian fortitude that exerted a wonderful influence upon the sorrowing friends made during a residence of twenty years in Orange.

She was born in Tracy, Minn., July 10, 1891, coming to Orange with her people in 1902. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Margaret B. Thompson; two sisters, Miss Lillian Thompson and Mrs. Henry Meehan; and two brothers, Maynard Thompson and Dr. Morris Thompson of Los Angeles.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. C. Dalton. Interment was made in Fairhaven cemetery.

RUNAWAY'S SON WINS FAME AS INDIAN CHIEF

OMAHA, Dec. 10.—How the son of a Louisiana planter, a scion of a noble French family, became head chief of a Nebraska Indian tribe is being retold in Nebraska following the death of Mrs. Tyndall on the Omaha Indian reservation.

Mrs. Tyndall, 76 years old, was the last living child of the Indian chief whose father was the Louisiana farm boy.

The Louisiana end of the story began more than a century ago, following the revolution in France, Lucien Fontenelle emigrated to Louisiana. His plantation was on the Mississippi river about twenty-five miles below New Orleans. Lucien Fontenelle had a sister living in New Orleans. He also had several children, among them a boy named for the father and a daughter named Amelia. Young Lucien and Amelia were visiting their aunt when a typhoon wrecked their plantation home and killed all the other members of the family. The aunt insisted that Lucien go to school. Lucien rebelled. Then he ran away from home.

The natural place for a runaway New Orleans boy to go in those days was up the Mississippi river to St. Louis. St. Louis then was just as French as was New Orleans. So up to St. Louis the runaway Lucien Fontenelle went.

The Indian country, at that time, lay to the north—up the river of adventure—up the Missouri. Fontenelle remained around St. Louis awhile. Then he joined an expedition to the real Indian country.

He wound up at the Omaha Indian village some ten miles below the present city of Omaha. Here he married Neumane, daughter of the chief of the Omaha tribe.

There were five children—Logan, Tecumseh, Albert, Henry and Susan. These children, although they were halfbreeds, were educated at St. Louis.

Logan, the oldest, had the adventurous blood which caused him to leave the Louisiana farm boy, to take to the wilds. Coupled with this was the blood of his Indian mother. Although educated in the white man's school, as a white man, he spent very little time among the whites, but lived with the Omaha tribe.

He had the oratory of his French ancestors. He was the best hunter on the prairies. His counsel was the wisest of all the wise men. And he had the education of the white man.

In time, Logan Fontenelle worked his way to the leadership of the tribe and had the biggest following of all the sub-chiefs. Then he was elected head chief—the last legally chosen chief of the Omahas.

Under Chief Logan Fontenelle the Omaha tribe made great progress toward civilization. Logan kept on friendly terms with the whites and there was never warfare between the two races. In fact, the Omahas acted as a buffer between the whites and the Sioux and always took the part of the white people.

One spring, when the Omahas were on their buffalo hunt, a great body of Sioux ambushed them and almost wiped them out. Chief Logan, on horseback, became mired in the mud along the river and was killed.

Chief Logan left several children, all of whom died years ago except his daughter, Mary, who married Tyndall over half a century ago.

This daughter recently died, the last of Chief Fontenelle's children, and her death has caused a revival of the story of the Louisiana farm boy, whose father was a noble of old France, and whose son became the chief of a western tribe of Indians.

Thirteen-Year-Old Boy Is Named 'Corn Prince'

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Maurice Lux, a 13-year-old boy from Shelbyville, Ind., won the title of "corn prince" of the International Grain and Hay show here when his ten ears of white dent corn won over several hundred other junior entries. Official Name of Game is 'Ma Chiang'

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Mah jongg, that ancient Chinese game that has caused many Americans so far as its name is concerned, to lose hours of sleep, is dead—instead, its enthusiasts will play "ma-chiang," because Chinese here insist there is no "J" in the Chinese word.

Devotees of the pastime met here last night and adopted rules and by-laws for their international organization to standardize the Chinese game. Then came a halt in the proceedings. How should the name of the game be spelled?

Several Chinese maintained the "mah jongg" rendition was entirely wrong. The American contingent stood steadfast for the familiar spelling. But after hours of argument the Chinese won. The name of the organization is to be the International Ma-Chiang Players' association.

Constantinople to be Rid of Beggars

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 10.—Since the municipal authorities have taken control of the city they have effected the reform of many abuses that went untouched during the years of the allied occupation.

Most striking is the crusade against beggars who have always infested this place. Under strict police efforts they have begun to disappear, and it is now possible to walk the streets without filthy men, women and children tugging at one's coat in importunate impudence. Now the order is out that the city is to be rid of its gypsies, who are said to constitute the majority of the beggars, sneakthieves and pickpockets that have infested the thoroughfares. They are to be sent into the interior and put to work at agriculture, public works and other unskilled jobs.

British Lose Claim For Dam Construction

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The British government has lost its claim against the United States for $755,400, growing out of the destruction of a dam built in the Rio Grande river at Elephant Butte, N. M., by the Rio Grande Irrigation and Land company in 1896, the State department announced today.

After lengthy litigation in this country, the claim was taken before the American and British claims arbitral tribunal in London and there dismissed.

Warner was president of the Warner-Quinlan Asphalt company, president of the Warner Sugar Refining company, and a director and officer of the Cuba company, the Corn Products Refining company and many other interests.

CHRIST'S BIRTH CONTENTIONS STARTLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Members of the congregation of Calvary Baptist church, at a fundamentalist mass meeting, gasped when the Rev. W. L. Pettingill, president of the Philadelphia Bible school, made strong statements concerning opponents of the doctrine of the virgin birth.

Dr. Pettingill took as his subject three points upon which he insisted all real Christians must have implicit faith:

The divinity of Christ the virgin birth, and the resurrection of the body.

Startling Expressions.

"Christ claimed to be God in the flesh, and He either spoke truly or falsely," said Dr. Pettingill, beginning with the doctrine of Christ's divinity. "He received and invited worship. If He be God we should adore Him and cast Him out as a blasphemer."

After many citations from scripture, Dr. Pettingill took up the doctrine of the resurrection of the body. He mentioned several apparitions of Christ in the flesh after His crucifixion.

Dr. Pettingill concluded by citing the prophecy that Christ will come again to earth, descending out of the sky with a shout. "Now, he couldn't do that very well without a body, he said."

Truth of Virgin Birth.

"Either the virgin birth is truth," said Dr. Pettingill, "or two things must be. First, the Bible must be false in regard to this. Second, Jesus of Nazareth was illegitimate."

The congregation, which had been in a smiling humor after the discussion of the resurrection, and the responses that Dr. Pettingill's arguments had evoked, sat bolt upright and caught its breath.

"It is an ugly word, brethren and beloved, but I don't know any other way to say it," Dr. Pettingill continued. "And Mary was a lewd, unclean woman who denied the truth. There's an ugly word for that, which I'll not say. And Jesus was the rankest impostor that ever walked the earth, unless He was God."

At the University of California, friends are now being conducted to the University of California.

MAGNATES TO HEAR COAST LEAGUE ROW

McCarthy-Williams Contest Up For Settlement; Both Presidents Confident

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Officials of organized baseball today started their job of trying to unscramble affairs in the Pacific coast baseball league.

With the major and minor league clubs meeting here, probably the most important of all the matters to be discussed, as far as the sport on the Pacific coast, at least, is concerned, was the contest between Harry Williams of Los Angeles and William H. McCarthy, of San Francisco over the Coast League presidency.

The two sides were to be laid before the national board of arbitration today.

Both Williams and McCarthy appeared confident of winning—just like two world's series clubs always seem confident of gaining the championship.

Illegal Election Claimed. "Williams was elected illegally," declared McCarthy before the meeting today, "and we will have no difficulty proving it."

"The whole thing is the fight against syndicate baseball and as long as I'm Coast League president there isn't going to be any syndicate baseball."

Williams continued to hang his case chiefly on the contention that five of the eight clubs had voted for him and that he had won by majority choice.

The meeting was considerably sobered by the tragic death of "Wild Bill" Donovan, who was killed in the wreck of the Twentieth Century Limited yesterday morning.

President John A. Heydler, of the National League who was a passenger on the train, but who escaped injury, rounded up the National League magnates for a preliminary conference.

League Teams Confer. The official meeting will get under way today.

But the president of the American League, has called a conference of his league for tomorrow. A joint meeting of the American and National Leagues will be held Wednesday.

The death of Donovan came as a great shock to the 2,000 owners, managers, players and scouts gathered for the meeting. Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, who was a rookie when the brilliant pitcher was at the height of his fame, said:

"Bill helped me get started. When the other boys gave me the pazz because all rookies get it, Bill took a kindly interest in me and helped me along. He has been one of my greatest friends and it is hard to lose him."

Some action in token of respect to Donovan will be taken by the meeting.

GOSSIP of the RING

One of the rules of the New York Boxing commission, promulgated, no doubt, by a high purpose, provides that a boxer under the age of twenty-one cannot engage in bouts of more than six rounds.

Ostensibly, this rule was enacted to safeguard undeveloped youngsters from the permanent effects of serious injuries that might be sustained in the ring and applied to youths who have not yet reached their full development.

There are very few boxers who are not physically fit to stand the gaff at the age of eighteen to twenty, however, and the rule results in misstatements of age to get around the rule.

Jack McAuliffe, the veteran lightweight and the only unbeaten retired champion takes issue with the commission on the theory that a boy is in danger when he is permitted to go fifteen rounds before he has reached his legal majority.

"All of the oldtimers fought their best fights when they were between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one. I was going through finish fights with bare knuckles and skin gloves when I was eighteen, and I believe that I am a good example that it didn't hurt me. Jack Dempsey fought his best fights when he was under twenty-one, and John L. Sullivan was in his best form in his youthful days," McAuliffe said.

With this rule in effect, Young Stribling, the eighteen-year-old Georgia light-heavyweight, is not permitted to box more than six rounds in New York, although he has gone ten, twelve and fifteen rounds in other places.

Being reasonable under his new administration, the commission agreed to suspend the rules in Stribling's case, if he would engage in several six rounders and submit to an examination by commission doctors after the bouts.

William Muldoon, chairman of the commission, knows as much about physical culture as any expert in the business but, like a great many experts, he takes his business too seriously, and he applies general rules to every individual case.

In the attitude of the commission that an eighteen-year-old boxer should take his time and not be in too much of a hurry to get out and hustle, some inconsistencies are apparent.

To Stribling, to young Dave Shad, a year or so ago, and others, the commission said: "You have plenty of time to make yourself. You have three or four years in which to take it easy, and at the end of that time you will be stronger, better equipped technically and more able to mix with better boxers where the big money can be secured."

To Gene Tunney, Joe Lynch, Mickey Walker and Mike McTigue, the same commission said not two weeks later: "You champions had better get out and defend your titles. You can't tell when boxing is going to get a sock from congress or the state legislature. When you refuse to defend your titles you are passing up golden opportunities of today that may be gone tomorrow."

HE'S COACH OF HUSKIE TEAM

will show the football fans of Southern California the tricks he has taught his University of Washington football team this season when he lines his Huskies up against the United States Naval academy at Pasadena New Year's day. Bagshaw's eleven lost but one game this season, that to California by the score of 9 to 0.

20,000 Sailors To Cheer Navy Eleven Against Washington

PASADENA, Dec. 10.—With 20,000 sailors and 3500 ex-navel academy students from Los Angeles harbor and San Diego grouped into one rooting section, which is believed to be the high water mark for support for an invading team will be seen here New Year's day when the United States Naval Academy meets the University of Washington in the annual East-West football game.

If the entire rooting sections of all of the Pacific coast teams were to be gathered together, it is doubtful if they would make an impressive showing against the sailors.

The presence of the Pacific fleet here almost makes it as much the middies' home as the lads from Washington, although it is a foregone conclusion that they will not be regarded as such by the followers of Western football.

better get out and defend your titles. You can't tell when boxing is going to get a sock from congress or the state legislature. When you refuse to defend your titles you are passing up golden opportunities of today that may be gone tomorrow."

LOCAL LEGION NINE CONQUERS PALOMAR

World War Vets Victorious In First Game of Season Despite Cold Wind

Managing to get in six innings before blown away by the chilling wind, the baseball team representing Santa Ana post No. 131, American Legion, yesterday afternoon took an 11 to 2 fall out of the Palomar team at the Fifth and Sullivan street diamond.

It was a bad day for the Legion's classy team to make its bow to the public but the World War veterans went through with it and with four run rallies in the second and sixth innings sewed up old man game. The Legionnaires also made tallies in the first and third stanzas. The visitors scored their pair in the third inning.

With twenty-five candidates reporting regularly, many of whom have had considerable experience, and with a well balanced schedule arranged, indications today were that Coach Ed Hummel would have a basketball team at the Santa Ana Junior college that will compare favorably with the classy grid eleven he produced this fall.

The collegiate quintet will swing into action this week with a pair of practice games. The squad will mingle with the Orange Athletic club at Orange Wednesday night and travel to Whittier Friday afternoon for a melee with the Post aggregation.

The league schedule of Hummel's henchmen follows:

HARRY GREB TAKES ON TUNNEY TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Gene Tunney and Harry Greb, the "you be a while and then I'll be" champions of the light-heavyweight class, are to mingle again tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Tunney, the handsome Greenwich villager, is the current champion and Greb, the flying Dutchman from Pittsburgh, is the middleweight champion.

Tex Rickard received a cable today from Georges Carpentier asking that he be matched to meet the winner in February.

Tunney will make a lot of Christmas money for the boys if he comes through, as the bulk of cash around New York has been deposited on the former marine.

Greb's established knack of making the best look bad has prevented the offering of any fat odds against him.

"The Fool"

By Channing Pollock

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Dilly Gilliam, her mother, Mrs. Gilliam of "Gilliam Groceries, Inc." with Mrs. Leila Thornbury, a divorcee, are trimming a Christmas tree on Christmas eve in the vestry of the Church of the Nativity, a fashionable church of New York.

Mrs. J. Orson Tice, wealthy, and a society leader, comes in with Jerry Goodkind, a man-about-town, who is interested in Clara Jewett, engaged to marry the assistant rector of the church, in bad favor because of his radical sermons.

Dr. Wadham, the rector, drops in to attend a meeting of the wardens. Mr. Barnaby is sexton of the church.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
"We didn't know you were back," Mrs. Tice returned the bow with awkward reverence.

"I didn't know you'd been away," doctor, Jerry said, extending a pudgy hand, "attending the conference on the proper use of eucharistic candles. It's a subject on which I feel rather strongly." He turned to the bearded tree upon which Mr. Barnaby was working diligently. "And what a beautiful tree! The star lights up, I suppose."

"We have hopes," said Dilly skeptically.
"Don't let me interrupt—I've only dropped in to keep an appointment with the wardens."

"We're all through," said Mrs. Gilliam, dusting her hands, "except for putting those gifts under the tree. Miss Jewett will be in a minute with the rest. The star is real imitation diamonds. A gift from Mrs. Tice."

"Speaking of gifts, doctor—" interrupted Mrs. Tice, advancing.
"Yes, dear lady," said the rector complacently.

"My husband wanted me to have a little talk with you about his check. You know, he promised $5000 to beautify the parish house."

"Oh, yes," said Dr. Wadham, shifting his hand to his chin in a gesture that was a sub-conscious move of self-defense when he scented trouble.

"And since then—well, frankly, doctor, John was very much upset about last Sunday's sermon. Mr. Gilchrist preached from the text about the rich man entering the kingdom of heaven."

"Always a trifle dangerous," agreed the rector.

"Yes, and last Sunday it seemed as if he were directing all his remarks at John. We're in the first pew, you know, and John says he doesn't like to complain, but there's getting to be altogether too much of this—boishevism. John half to blame for the present social unrest. I agree that some of the sermon was positively insulting."

"Mr. Gilchrist is young," the rector interposed.

"Gilchrist is a nut," Jerry snorted.

"Of course, what John objected to was the reference to rents—to charging clerks and bookkeepers more than they could pay for wretched little flats!" John says he doesn't come to be told how to run his business."

"Personally, I'm very fond of Mr. Gilchrist," Mrs. Gilliam declared. "His father had stock in our stores. But I don't think he's a good influence. This used to be a really exclusive church. Now, whenever Mr. Gilchrist preaches, there's such a crush of undesirable people in the galleries you can hardly get to your pews. We don't have that trouble with Dr. Wadham."

No one noticed that Clara Jewett, who had entered and stood in the black shadows that made the choir-room door part of the wall.

"Mr. Gilchrist was such a promising young man," sighed Mrs. Tice. "So rich and happy."

"And in love," added Dilly. "He's still rich and in love and, I think, happy," Dr. Wadham affirmed.

"I've told you, he's a nut," Jerry repeated emphatically.

"I wonder—" Mrs. Gilliam contemplated. "He wasn't like this before he went overseas. Maybe he was gassed—or something."

CHAPTER III
Rhineclander 6942
CLARA JEWETT advanced, her arms laden with packages.

"Oh, how do you do, Miss Jewett," Dr. Wadham greeted her unceremoniously.

"I'm very well, thank you. There was a certain defiance and a trifle uncertainty in her bearing which personified Clara Jewett. Until she was 20, she had been a creature of whim and emotion. Her father's death at that time had left her with problems to face. Meeting these, she had learned to think, to reflect and to consider."

At 28 the metamorphosis was only half completed. Whim still struggled with purpose. She could not have explained why she had promised to marry Daniel Gilchrist. A psychologist would have said it was because one side of her nature told her he would be successful and the other side that he would be faithful, not only to her but to his ideals. Both sides liked him. That was enough.

It was Jerry who brushed aside the rather uncomfortable situation.

She began chanting "My Wife's Gone to the Country," but her professional luster, only until her mother could hush her. The doctor placed his packages with the others at the foot of the giant tree. Mrs. Tice halted him at the door of the choir room.

"And doctor—about the parish house. Shall I tell my husband you'll speak to Mr. Gilchrist?"

"Yes," he said. "I think you may even tell him that's why we're here today."

That done, and done well, Mrs. Tice turned to go. And offer to drive them home took Mrs. Gilliam and Dilly with her. Mr. Barnaby still tinkered with the Star of Bethlehem.

"I think the trouble's outside," he decided as though he were to blame, and hurried along to help the three into Mrs. Tice's car.

Clara looked at though she wished Jerry had gone, too.

"It's funny to find you in church," she countered, trying to be at ease.

"I want to talk to you," he said seriously.

"That's just it, Jerry," she objected. "You always want to talk to me, and always to say something I don't want to hear."

"Why not?"

"I'm in love with someone else," she said simply, but not surely. He quickly sensed the tone.

"You're not going to marry Dan Gilchrist," he declared in his unpleasantly emphatic way. "What's the use of bluffing. We've known each other since we were kids. You know I'm not going to give up anything I want because it belongs to somebody else. And I know you're not going to give up what you want—comfort and luxury—for a crazy man who wears his collar inside before."

"Jerry!"

"Now that's admitted, let's go on."

"Mr. Gilchrist isn't exactly poverty-stricken."

"No, he got quite a lot of money from his father. You like him and when you said 'yes' you thought you were getting someone you liked, and all the rest of it, too. But something's gone wrong with Gilchrist, and you know it."

"Why do you say that?" she asked quizzically.

"Because, if you didn't before, you heard it this afternoon. I saw you standing in the door. And I'm going to tell you a few things more. He was cold now and harsh."

"I don't want to listen," she remonstrated, turning away.

"Maybe—but you will! Do you know that your young trouble-hunter has given away nearly one-tenth of his capital in three months?"

"No, and I don't believe it!"

"All right, ask my father. The old man has his money in trust. Gilchrist won't touch his income from Gilliam Groceries because he says they're profiteering, and he's preaching such anarchy that both wardens are coming this afternoon to complain to Dr. Wadham. I don't want you to throw yourself away on a raving bug."

"Marry me. I'm a nice fellow, too—and I can give you what you really care about. You're over your ears in debt without any chance of paying up—or cutting down. And you're—"

He paused and surveyed her a moment—"shall we say, twenty-nine in October? I know what it cost you when your father died, and you had to come down a peg. You don't want to keep on—coming down, do you?" This last deliberately and pointedly.

"And so—you advise me to marry you?"

"Yes."

She looked at him squarely and significantly.

"Knowing all I do about you?"

"I don't see how that concerns you," he answered brazenly.

"It proves you don't love me," she said.

"I want you, and I'm offering marriage to you," he pointed out. "You haven't said one word of love."

START WORK ON OCEAN AVENUE THIS WEEK

Begin Wednesday on Laying of Pavement In 239,000 Job at Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 10.—One hundred men will be employed in the construction of the pavement on Ocean boulevard which begins this Wednesday, according to Contractor George M. Souter.

Men are busy at the present time installing the engines to run the mixing plants for the paving material.

Figures Are Given
According to Mr. Souter about eight carloads of sand and gravel will be used each day in connection with the construction work. About 2000 barrels of asphalt will be used every day.

The large mixing plant recently erected near First street is capable of producing enough of the material to lay one block of paving each day, it is said. The plant cost $30,000.

Work will commence at Eighth street and will travel toward the city limits on the west. The pavement at Eighth street will be eighty feet in width. Eighty foot pavement is included in the plans for the street from First to twenty-third street to the city limits on the west. The street will be twenty feet wide.

$239,000 Job
The bid of Contractor Souter for the paving of the street was $239,000. Grading on the entire street is done and the subgrading is nearly completed, he said. No delay is anticipated in the laying of the pavement.

It is stated on good authority that the state highway officials intend to let the contract for the paving of the coast highway being constructed on the east of the city sometime this month. The distance between this city and the Balboa Palisades is about six miles over the course of the new road. According to report the road between this city and Laguna should be completed and open for the summer traffic of 1924.

Nothing will be done toward the building of the highway from First street to the city limits until the state highway commission declares its intention of building the road on through to Newport and Balboa, it is said.

Although the grade has been established and the roadbed is practically filled from First street to the city limits, the city will not actually take steps to have the pavement installed.

With the opening of the new road this city will be placed a considerable distance closer to Newport Beach by road and will also be closer to all southern points. The recent opening of the state highway to the west has opened a much closer road to the cities of the northwestern part of the county and along the coast to Los Angeles county.

Plan Celebration
When the pavement is completed from this city to the state highway on the west it is the plan to hold a big celebration.

The pavement to be laid by Mr. Souter is ready for instant use and will be traveled over almost as fast as it is completed. Several large trucks will carry the material from the mixing plant to the place of construction. The time consumed to load one of the trucks at the mixer is about one minute, it is said by the contractor.

Mr. Souter stated that the road should be completed by the first of February of 1924.

ADULTS CHARGE, SENTENCED
HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 10.—E. V. Price of this city, who recently pleaded not guilty to charges of drunkenness, changed his plea to guilty in Judge C. M. Warner's court here Friday afternoon and was sentenced to spend sixty days in the county jail.

ALLOW IMMIGRANT TO WED AMERICAN
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—It was a real Thanksgiving for Mrs. Boretha Priss of Germany and Henry Scharlotenberg of 2512 Bush street. After an anxious delay of a week in which both persons feared the young woman might be deported to Europe, the couple were united at the Travelers' Aid society rooms in the ferry building.

Mrs. Priss arrived at Ellis Island several days ago from Germany with Miss Gertrude Wolff. Both were coming to California to marry. Mrs. Priss' affidavits showing that she was to wed Scharlotenberg were in her trunk and she went on through without stopping at the immigration station. The young woman had nothing to prove her statement and was told she might have to return to Germany. Miss Wolff, having her papers in her hand, was allowed to proceed to California, arriving last week and being married immediately to John Preve, 2026 Rush street. Her trunk went astray and the wedding was performed without her bridal gown, a traveling suit being substituted.

Mrs. Priss was released on proving through telegrams that her story was correct, and she arrived in the city. She and Scharlotenberg will be married today. Mr. and Mrs. Preve acting as best man and bridesmaid.

Former Fighters in Veterans Hospital To Be Remembered

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 10.—Soldiers of the Veterans' hospital at Tucson, Ariz., will be presented with Christmas presents if the plans of the Girls' League society of the local high school are carried out.

The members of the league have agreed to make presents for two or more of the soldiers at the hospital and have them ready to be sent off by December 15, it was announced.

The Girls' League of the high school has also been placed in charge of the sales of 10,000 Christmas stamps. According to announcement of the girls in charge of the affair it is the plan to have an interclass race to see which class can sell the most stamps.

Opposition Fought
The public is cordially invited to the meeting and there promises to be some lively discussion on the subject.

According to representatives here the ground for the proposed building of the Textile company has already been leased and nearly all details are complete for the company to commence building. Drawings of the buildings proposed to be built were posted in the windows of various real estate dealers Saturday.

The mill project was endorsed by the local realty board at a meeting held Friday night.

Chamber Boosts For It
Benjamin Patton, real estate man, and Lynn Colburn are local men interested in the bringing of the cotton plant to this city. According to J. A. Armitage, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, the plant here will start this city on an industrial career which may be the making of the city.

The start of one industry in a community will tend to bring other industries. Mr. Armitage pointed out. He also pointed out the fact that the local people interested had secured a tract of land close to the city on the flats to the east and will reserve this for factory sites exclusively, should the cotton mill project prove to be successful.

Representatives of the company are said to have selected Huntington Beach from a large list of possible cities for their factory site.

BEACH YOUNG FOLK FORM ORCHESTRA
HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 10.—The Sunshine Jazz orchestra which will play for the Associated Chambers of Commerce meeting here Wednesday evening, December 12, is rapidly becoming one of the most well-known and popular musical organizations in the city.

The orchestra was started recently by six local young people, some of whom are themselves the Sunshine Jazz Six. The orchestra is led by Miss Lucille Harrell, pianist.

Gilbert Harrell is cornetist, and John Soden plays the saxophone. Miss Delite McIntosh, a violinist of considerable talent, does the "fiddling," while Dan Duff plays the drums.

The sixth member of the musicians is Miss Nell Mitchell, banjo. Not all of their music is played by the orchestra. Miss Lucille Harrell acts as soloist and has sung in several different instances. A trio composed of John Soden, Gilbert Harrell and Miss Lucille Harrell also provides variation of the music rendered by the six.

The orchestra has fulfilled several recent engagements including music at the Boy Scout benefit, and will play at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce here Wednesday night.

ONE DIVORCE SUIT LEADS TO ANOTHER
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—The matrimonial tangle which came to light recently in a divorce action heard in San Francisco, in which Mrs. Leonard Kerr sued her husband, Andrew Kerr, naming Mrs. Fredrika Wallace of 116 Hagar avenue, Piedmont, was echoed to the Alameda county courts when a deposition containing sensational testimony was filed in behalf of Mrs. Wallace in her divorce suit against George J. Wallace, wealthy furniture dealer of San Francisco.

It is set forth in the deposition that Mrs. Wallace refused to testify until Mrs. Kerr, who was present, was ordered to leave the room.

You get along with Andrew better than I do."

CARRIERS HELD BARRIERS TO MINING

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 10.—A charge that the railroad corporations of the West are placing further obstacles in the way of the owners and operators of the industry that it is impossible to resume normal production of precious minerals, was made at the open hearing conducted here for the settlement of the charges against the carriers.

Edward S. Van Dyck, Sacramento mine operator, stated that his first experience with railroad interference occurred recently in the development of a mine in Nevada.

A claim had been investigated that covered a number of sections of ground. A great deal of development work had been completed and the mine was found to contain profitable ore. When a patent was applied for, it was found that a railroad owned a certain portion of the claim, and had included the parcel of land in a blanket claim which covered other properties.

As a consequence, Van Dyck's company, in order to go ahead with its mining work, must carry the case through the courts before it will be permitted to remove the ore from the railroad's land, Van Dyck said.

Adolph Sutro, representing the Dominion Mines corporation of San Francisco, cited a similar instance in which his organization, after developing a project in Siskiyou county, found that the work had been done on railroad land. It was necessary to threaten a court fight before an amicable price was determined for the land between officials of the mining company and the railroad, he said.

G. McRossa, engineer of Stockton, said development of the tungsten fields in Nevada was practically abandoned during the war period owing to the fact that the railroads had applied for mineral patents on their grants.

Practically every speaker called attention to the increased costs in labor and operations.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Sixty cows and six small children may be proffered as bond for Hipolito Lapache, Visitation valley dairyman, charged with violating the Volstead act.

Lapache, before Federal Judge Partridge, admitted that he was arrested for operating three illicit stills on his ranch.

"Are you on bond?" asked the court.

"I am not," responded Lapache. "But I've got as security sixty cows and six small children."

"All right," said Judge Partridge. "Be on your way, but report here with an attorney. If you do not come here," said Judge Partridge, "I will expect to see sixty cows and six children to be taken as security for your release on bond."

"I'll be here with the kids and the cows," said Lapache, as he left the courtroom.

TELLS WORK IN BARING TEXAS OIL FRAUDS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The conviction of Dr. Frederick A. Cook and twelve others on the charge of fraudulent advertising through the mails, in connection with oil stock promotion at Fort Worth, Texas, is the real start of a nationwide campaign against oil stock swindlers, according to a statement issued here by Lou E. Holland, president of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

More than 100 other oil men are under indictment in Texas and are awaiting trial, Holland said.

"The national vigilance committee, its affiliated better business bureaus in forty cities, and the 275 advertising clubs throughout the United States, comprising the Associated Advertising Clubs, are in the midst of a national drive on oil frauds, and the public should co-operate with the federal government in exposing these 'swindlers,'" Holland said.

"It is the duty of every citizen to forward to the postmaster general at Washington any oil prospectus, or other stock jobbing literature, which he thinks fraudulent."

"The department of justice and the postal authorities are to be congratulated on their excellent work in handling the cases against such men as Dr. Cook, S. E. J. Cox, Fred K. Smith and the others involved in the Petroleum Producers' association."

"These cases were brought to the government's attention by the national vigilance committee. There are more than 100 other indictments pending, and we are working on many new cases. Before the campaign is over, I feel confident that many of the wolves of the petroleum industry who prey on the savings of widows and orphans through fraudulent schemes will have been placed behind the bars."

WOMAN STRUCK BY BANDIT IN GEM THEFT

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Attacked, beaten and robbed by an armed ruffian who found her alone in the Warfield Cateria Employment agency about 6:30, Mrs. Maude Darden, secretary of the agency, still was unbalanced by her terrifying experience hours after the police, in a hot chase, had captured her assailant.

A wedding ring and a diamond, valued at $500, were ripped from Mrs. Darden's fingers by the thug, who gained admission to the agency office on the pretext of seeking employment. He first asked Mrs. Darden for money and when she declined to give it, he attacked her furiously, hitting her several blows in the face and on the head, and tearing the rings from her fingers.

Attracted by the woman's screams, Victor Castro, night watchman of the building, attempted to grapple the bandit as he ran down the stairs, but the thug knocked Castro down and leaped over his body.

Traffic Policeman William Rees, hearing the outcry and noting the fleeing man, took up the chase. Pedestrians joined in the pursuit. Rees fired several shots at the fugitive and finally captured him in Stevenson street, between Fifth and Sixth, where he subdued him.

Taken to the hall of justice, the prisoner gave his name as Carlton Smith and said he landed in San Francisco from Montreal, Canada. He denied having attacked Mrs. Darden, but admitted having been in the employment agency office. He saw the woman lying on the floor, he said, and when she began to scream.

Gems Missing
The police were unable to find the stolen rings on Smith's person and hold the belief he discarded them in his flight. A charge of robbery was placed against him. Smith is in his early twenties, husky built and well dressed.

Mrs. Darden was taken to the Central Emergency Hospital, suffering violently from shock and the beating she had received. She went into hysterics when police tried to question her. Later she lapsed into a quieter, dazed condition, but when taken to the hall of justice to identify her assailant, she again burst into violent hysterics. She was removed to her apartment at 1955 Leavenworth street and left in the care of friends.

POSTS $30,000 AS MARRIAGE GUARANTEE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—A strange story of a wealthy man who posted a guarantee of about $30,000 in stocks and bonds, to assure his fiancée when he obtained the final decree of divorce from his first wife, he would then marry her, was unfolded in the superior court, with the filing of a suit for annulment by H. J. Bateman.

Cloned in secrecy, the complaint named the wife only as Mrs. L. E. Bateman, and no address was given, save that at the time of the signing of the unique agreement, she occupied an apartment at 142 Taylor street.

Strange Document
According to the document, which was found to have been filed by Attorney Mitchell M. Bourquin, Bateman, on April 11, 1922, shortly after having been granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from his first wife, agreed that when his divorce became final, on March 15, 1923, he would marry the woman, who now is his wife. To assure his fiancée of faithful performance of his promise, Bateman stated that he posted with the Union Trust Company as trustee, securities valued at approximately $30,000. The contract which Bateman signed provided that in case he should not marry the woman when his divorce became final, the Union Trust Company would be turned over to her.

After the signing of the contract to marry, Bateman declares he realized the union was destined to meet difficulties and incompatibilities and he alleges that he begged the public to cancel it and release the securities. This she refused to do, he sets forth, and on March 2 of this year they were married in Modes.

Stormy Life
Bateman declares his belief that his wife did not intend to marry him and fully expected to obtain the securities when he defaulted the marriage contract. He alleges that their life together since marriage has been stormy and that she is quarrelsome and loses her temper to the extent of knocking his teeth out. He lists in his complaint instances when, he says, she scratched him or in other ways shown antipathy toward her husband.

The bonds, which Bateman says were deposited in trust, were valued at $35,000 and the stocks included twenty-five shares of common stock of the California Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, ten preferred shares of the Great Northern, ten preferred shares of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph, ten shares of American Can company, ten shares of preferred Bethlehem Steel and ten shares of Central Leather.

Bateman asks that his marriage be annulled.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT CHAMPIONS CO-EDS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 7.—If girls have larger feet and become fatter, says William O. Thompson, President of Ohio State University, will look upon the matter philosophically. He wrote in this vein to the University publication. He said:

"For more than a generation there has been a keen debate about co-education. The co-ed has been a source of anxiety, especially to the sterner sex."

"They were solicitous lest the strain and stress of higher education would go to the co-ed's head and disturb the happy relation hitherto existing."

"The current announcement that higher education has gone to her feet, with an occasional exception, where the waist line has been the recipient of this effort, greatly relieves all of us who still love the girls in spite of their education."

Fewer Shipments of Vegetables Reported

ANAHEIM, Dec. 10.—Fruit and vegetable shipments this week were light. The Osborne Fruit and Vegetable company in Fullerton moved eight cars of cauliflower and a few cars of lettuce. The Olive or Peppers Fruit company shipped one car of lemons.

Holiday navel oranges are practically all shipped. Only 17 cars were shipped by the Northern Orange Citrus Exchange according to Manager Dale R. King, of which Anaheim shipped nine cars and Fullerton and Placentia eight. The Orange County Fruit Exchange shipped six cars and the M. O. D. two, making 25 cars for the county.

To December 5, inclusive, California has shipped a total of 3,925 loads of oranges. The first five days of December this season saw a total of 1570 carloads of navel shipped, an average of 314 cars daily. Comparing this average with that of other years, in 1922 the average daily shipment was 122.4 cars; 1921, 120.8 cars; 1920, 24.3 cars; 1919, 132.6 cars; 1918, 94.3 cars and 1917, 54 cars.

DRANK LIQUOR, LOST CAR

FULLERTON, Dec. 10.—During the remaining days of 1923, Ernest Kangel, 18-year-old employee of the Postmaster's office, will have plenty of time to meditate over the mixture of gasoline and booze as he walks four miles to and from his work each day. For in addition to finding Kangel $25 on a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, Judge William French decreed that the young man should not drive a car until 1924.

ANAHEIM STUDENT STRUCK BY AUTO

ANAHEIM, Dec. 10.—Wesley Shoultz, 14, student in the Anaheim union high school is recovering in the Anaheim hospital from injuries sustained when he was run down while riding a bicycle on the highway west of Anaheim by a car driven by F. S. Luce of this city.

At the hospital where the boy was rushed immediately his injuries were diagnosed as a fractured left leg and minor bruises.

Luce, according to a report on file in the Anaheim police headquarters had started for Long Beach and was driving at about 30 miles an hour. There was no light on the bicycle and the driver did not see the boy until the crash.

Motion Pictures to Be Shown at School

ORANGE, Dec. 10.—The film "Disraeli" will be shown at the high school auditorium here next Friday, December 14. This is a story of political life in England and is intensely interesting.

The leading part, Disraeli, is taken by George Arliss, who also starred in "The Ruling Passion" and "The Man Who Played God." The film is portrayed in seven reels.

In addition to this there will be one or two shorter films, one of them being a comedy.

PICK PRESIDENT OF PARK CHAMBER

BUENA PARK, Dec. 10.—Miss Elizabeth Berkey accompanied her Sunday school class of the Christian church in Fullerton on a week-end party at Lake Arrowhead.

The "Father and Sons" are planning a very interesting program for the next meeting of the P. T. A. The women of the community are cordially invited to come and see what a good entertainment the men can give.

A very important meeting of the farm bureau will be held at the school hall tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The officers for the new year will be elected and important business discussed.

Miss Florence Schotfield spent the week-end at El Centro. Miss Schotfield is a member of the Fullerton junior college basketball team which played El Centro Friday.

Mrs. K. L. Sowday of Wichcreek is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Root, of Eleventh street.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bixby were dinner guests in Long Beach Wednesday.

WORK ON SEWER LINE TO START SOON. REPORT

Contractors Made Ready to Begin Construction of Outfall Links

ANAHEIM, Dec. 10.—Successful bidders on the construction of connecting lines between Anaheim and the joint outfall sewer have signed contracts with the city and are ready to start work within a short time, according to a statement made by City Manager O. E. Steward.

Penel Barnett, Orange, will start work within three weeks on the laying of 20 inch pipe across the sewer farm, connecting Anaheim's present sewer line with the outfall line. The job will cost approximately $24,000.

D. J. Milosevich, who will lay 10,000 feet of 10 and 12 inch pipe along La Palma street at a cost of $11,050, started work on the line this morning.

Mr. Steward states that work has been progressing rapidly on Anaheim's part of the joint outfall sewer. Section 1 has been completed for some time, C. E. Green is more than half through with Section 2, Cox and Tegeth have completed Section 3 with the exception of manholes, and Section 4, connecting the city sewer farm and La Palma street, will be started December 17.

Downer and Mero, contractors on Section 4, have assigned their contract to J. C. Hickey and W. R. Harmon of Alhambra, but the assignment has not yet been approved by the board of trustees.

Anaheim boasts an experienced opinion that the day is not far off when there will be a solid city between Anaheim and Garden Grove, as a sanitary district if organized anywhere between here and Garden Grove along Euclid avenue can join the sewer.

DENTAL CLINIC AT ANAHEIM PLANNED

ANAHEIM, Dec. 10.—Further steps toward the organization of a free dental clinic for Anaheim school children will be taken December 12 when Dr. F. E. Hodge-donn of Pasadena will come to this city to outline the benefits of such a plan. It was announced here yesterday.

The movement was started more than a month ago when school authorities, city officials, and welfare workers met with dentists of Anaheim and made tentative plans for the organization of the clinic.

After arrangements have been completed a room in the city hall will be fitted up with the regular equipment of a dentist's office, and each dentist of the city will donate a certain amount of time to the clinic each week, it is said.

Dr. Hodge-donn, who has charge of similar work in Pasadena, will advise the local committee on the operation of the clinic. The preliminary arrangements are being handled by a committee headed by Dr. J. E. Waters.

ANAHEIM PERMITS PROMISE RECORD

ANAHEIM, Dec. 10.—With building permits for the first week in December exceeding the $100,000 mark, Anaheim has set another record in expansion, according to J. W. Price, building inspector. During the past week permits for thirteen homes and one church structure were issued. This brings the year's total to more than $2,243,000.

That Anaheim's rapid growth has attracted attention throughout the Pacific coast region was indicated when the national building report of the S. W. Strauss and company was released.

Comparison of figures reveal that Anaheim's building increase during November was greater than that of the following cities: San Jose, San Bernardino, Alameda, Bakersfield, Chico, Eureka, Modesto, Pomona, Santa Cruz and Vallejo.

A PUZZLE A DAY

A man was imprisoned in a tower, 40 feet from the ground. A friend smuggled a rope to him, but he found that although the rope was strong enough to bear five times his weight, it was only 20 feet long which would necessitate a drop of 20 feet—too far for safety. Nevertheless, he managed to escape with the aid of the rope. How did he do it?

Yesterday's answer:
120, 72 and 45 are the three parts of 237 which so divide 237 that 2 times the first part (2x120) is equal to 5 times the second (5x72) and 8 times the third (8x45).

TELL PUBLICITY SERVICE AT POMONA

CLAREMONT, Dec. 10.—One year ago the department of regional service was organized at Pomona college, leaving its special line of service to be determined largely by the development and necessities of the future. Gradually four distinct and important lines of service in connection with the college have come under the direction of this department, according to college statement, which follows:

"The publicity work of the college, in the matter of furnishing news to the newspapers of Southern California, special articles for religious papers, educational publications and technical journals, is under the supervision of the regional service department.

"It is also the work of this department to make the necessary arrangements for conventions and other gatherings which are held at the college. Organizations of various kinds are recognizing more and more the unusual facilities afforded by Pomona for meetings of this character. An illustration of this is the very successful annual meeting of the Southern California Editorial association last September.

"Calls for speakers for all kinds of organizations are cared for through this department. Speakers are constantly being provided, not only for schools and churches, but also for chambers of commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs and every type of organization which uses a speaker in connection with its meetings. These calls are not allowed to interfere with the regular work of the college, but with about one hundred members on the faculty and administrative force, it is usually possible to provide a satisfactory speaker in response to any call.

"Perhaps the most important phase of the regional service work is that of creating and maintaining cooperation with the constituency of Pomona college throughout Southern California and Arizona."

SHOWS BIG INCREASE IN FORTIFIED WINE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—Almost 19,000,000 glasses of soft drinks were sold in Southern California in November, an increase of more than 5,000,000 over the same period of 1922, but at the same time figures given out by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodsell indicated that in the face of the enormous increase in the sale of soft drinks, tax was paid in November on brandy that would fortify 600,000 gallons of sweet wine against a production of only 186,000 gallons for November of last year.

Federal tax paid on near-beers, grape juice and ginger ale represented sales of 18,642,233 glasses, compared with 13,368,000 for November of 1922, a gain of 5,274,233 glasses.

Fountain syrups on which tax was paid were capable of producing 11,918,288 glasses of soda water, as against 9,536,000 for last November.

Manufacturers of carbonic acid gas reported taxable sales that would make 11,975,235 glasses of charged drinks, compared with 5,174,400 for November, 1922.

Recapitulation of Collector Goodsell's report indicated that taxes were paid on 18,642,233 glasses of soft drinks of all kinds in November, as against 13,368,000 for the same period of a year ago, an increase of 5,274,233.

While the soft drink business increased, $52,225 in taxes was collected during November on 87,042 gallons of grape brandy to be used in fortifying sweet wines. This quantity would produce approximately 600,000 gallons of sweet wines ranging from 14 percent to 21 percent of alcohol strength, or from 23 to 42 proof. Last November only $15,977 was paid and 26,639 gallons of brandy used in fortifying 186,000 gallons of port, muscatel, sherry, burgundy and other sweet wines.

EVENING SALUTATION

At times there come, as come there ought,

When Fortune frowns, nor lends our night
One gleam of her inconstant light;
And Hope, that decks the peasant's bower,
Shines like the rainbow through the shower.

PASSES $5,000,000 MARK

Santa Ana's building record for 1923 has gone by the $5,000,000 mark.
There is nothing surprising about the announcement made in The Register a few days ago, for it was known weeks ago that the building pace in Santa Ana was such that the total of the building permits for this year would certainly reach at least $5,000,000. Indications now are that the total will get well along toward another quarter-million on top of the $5,000,000.

The year 1923 has already shown a clear gain of $1,230,000 over the total building record for 1922. The record for that year was $3,771,831. Mind you, these figures are for construction inside of the city limits of Santa Ana. They do not include scores of residences that have been built all around the outside edges of the city.

Naturally, our thoughts turn to the coming year. We are asking ourselves, "What will the building permits come to in 1924?"

And we are asking the question with confidence, for we believe that Santa Ana will continue to grow.

THE BEST SHOPPING WEEK

Today, at the post office, marks the real beginning of the Christmas rush. Christmas buying is well under way in Santa Ana stores, and we are all impressed with the knowledge that Christmas is at hand.

Have we given heed to the advice, "Buy Early"? No, not yet? Well, it's not too late to give heed. Those who conscientiously set themselves to the pleasure of doing their Christmas shopping this week will be happier when they have accomplished their purpose in that regard.

There are many reasons beside that of personal comfort and satisfaction why shopping should be done this week.

For one thing, the shopper has more time to make selections, and stocks have not been depleted.

Incidentally, we might remark that Santa Ana stores have never been better equipped for supplying all of the needs of the residents of Orange county Christmas shoppers than they are this December. One need but visit the stores to know that this is true.

CALL IT INITIATIVE

In a newspaper column headed "What Did You See?" wherein readers report all sorts of curious happenings, appears this contribution from a small boy named George:

"I have a blackboard. I saw my little sister take chalk from the ledge of it and write all over the furniture."

To George's matter-of-fact mind that action was utterly inexplicable. George, it may be observed, has no great insight into character and human nature. To his little sister, it was a perfectly natural and obvious thing to do. Anybody could write on a blackboard! She was a person of imagination and initiative. A bit of writing on a bed or a wall, where her absurd elders would never think of writing, was an achievement worth while.

Her point of view, no doubt, was something like that of the newspaper man who illustrated news value by saying that if a dog bit a man, that was not news, but if a man bit a dog, that was news.

There is an occasional parent who understands and appreciates this point of view. One such parent, a California father, was tremendously impressed when his little daughter undertook to carve lovely designs on the legs of his piano, with a hammer, because she thought they looked too plain. The father was so proud of his daughter's initiative that he would never have the piano legs repaired, but exhibited them with a grand flourish to all his friends. We aren't vouching for the truth of this story, but it illustrates the point.

Children's artistic and scientific initiative is pretty hard on furniture and houses and clothes and parents, but it has its value, we were told. "Their experimenting and destructive experiments grow out of a spirit of adventure which, directed into right channels, makes civilization and progress. Without it, this would be a uniform world of human ants."

But it would be so much less expensive if they would exercise their initiative on a fence or an old barn or a stump in the back yard.

CANNED MUSIC GALORE

The pipe organ so far has resisted being turned into an automaton. In an age of self-playing instruments, it has required human players. And since the vogue arose for pipe organs in moving picture theaters, there has been a greater demand than ever for organists. The instruments have been too elaborate for mechanical operation.

Now it is announced that self-playing organs are to be produced, operating like player-pianos. Two rolls will be placed on the instrument at once, and rolls can be installed in series, to be played one after another by the mere pressing of a bush-button in the operator's booth.

Fortunately nobody has yet discovered how to produce a self-playing violin. But it is manifestly and increasingly an age of canned music. Everything is stored in records and rolls for use at will, and we even have the broadcasting of these canned goods by radio, making the musical product doubly mechanical.

It is fine for the extensive distribution and consumption of music, but something fine is always lost when the human agent is removed. Machinery can never altogether take the place of flesh and blood, especially in the realm of art. It will be so with the organ.

DUE FOR AN AWAKENING

France thinks Premier Baldwin blundered when he accepted the debt refunding arrangement between Great Britain and the United States. Frenchmen consider it certain that Premier Poincare will not make any such arrangement and lay himself open to the charge that he is burdening French taxpayers while the German taxpayers have not yet paid their obligations. That has a plausible sound, but the principle is contrary to accepted standards of honor among individuals and among nations. The delinquency of one debtor does not absolve his creditor from the latter's obligations. If it did there would be no such thing as credit, and finances would be in a perpetual state of chaos.

Great Britain never made another such tremendous stride toward attaining the respect and good will of Americans as when she took measures to carry out in good faith the terms of her promissory notes. It is our guess that Mr. Baldwin, who negotiated that agreement, lost nothing of his personal popularity by so doing; in fact, it was after the conclusion of the Washington conference that he was elevated to the premiership. Patriotic and intelligent Englishmen realize that payment of honest debts is the best policy—for themselves as well as for their country. Some day France will realize the same truth, although it is likely to be a long time in the future.

A War Invention

San Bernardino Sun

For some time past rumors have been current in Europe of a mysterious invention by means of which automobiles and even airplanes can, from a distance, be brought to a standstill. The recent forced descents, said to be eight in number, of airplanes of the Franco-Roumanian airplane line, flying over German territory, were declared to be in no way due, as at first supposed, to ordinary motor trouble, but were really the result of the exercising of a mysterious controlling force, operated from the ground.

Such reports were so extraordinary that they were received with skepticism. This attitude, however, no longer possible after an official of the French air ministry has declared that the French government is in touch with successful experiments for the control of automobiles from a distance. The same official denies, however, that there is any proof that the Germans have succeeded in applying the new invention to the stopping of airplanes in flight.

At the same time he did not deny that the new invention might prove capable of extension to airplanes. His denial is convincing as far as it goes, but the fact remains that the eight machines of the Franco-Roumanian air line which were forced to descend, all developed their motor trouble at the same spot in Bavaria.

As was inevitable, the French authorities are already in search of a counter-invention which will protect aircraft and automobiles against the effects of this mysterious power. If this should not be promptly discovered the effect of the arresting power would be revolutionary. All modern armies are forced to depend on motor power, not only for conveying food and munitions, but also for drawing the heavy guns and working the tanks. Without unimpeded motor power, warfare as it is at present practiced would be impossible.

Comparison Is Made

San Bernardino Sun

It seems as if nearly every town and city in California has adopted the Community Chest idea, as a business solution of the financing of its service organizations and charities, many of them having been influenced by the splendid success scored in San Bernardino, when our Chest for $40,000 went over with a little to spare, and the campaign was completed on schedule time.

Fresno is the latest city to have actually made the campaign, but instead of "going over" in the week originally allotted to the task, last Saturday night marked the end of the second week, with the total sought still some distance away. The goal was fixed at $148,000, but at the end of the first week the workers had brought in but $95,000. The time limit was extended, and in the second week the totals were raised to $122,000, or something like $26,000 short of the sum asked for on behalf of the chest. Represented in this subscription are 9,425 givers.

It is true the Fresno total was a much more ambitious one than that we attempted here in San Bernardino, and Fresno papers report that 14,000 names had been listed as possible contributors to the fund. But the result in this city is more than ever a very favorable commentary on the organization that was called into existence for the campaign, as well as a tribute to the splendid effort of the workers.

Editorial Shorts

Census reports indicate that more people are killed in the city of Los Angeles from automobile accidents than in any other city in the United States, on the basis of population, 29 out of every 100,000 population, being killed in that manner. The average for the entire state is 26 per 100,000 population. The total number in automobile accidents in the entire country last year was 11,666. That is around 11,000 too many and indicates the absolute necessity of enforcement of traffic laws and careful driving provisions.—Riverside Enterprise.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

STOMACH TROUBLE—ULCER

You have heard some acquaintances of yours talk about their stomach troubles. Your stomach doesn't feel any too good, and the possibility of an ulcer comes up in your mind. Now what is an ulcer of the stomach?

Just exactly the same thing as an ulcer anywhere else, in or on the body. The tissues are actually destroyed or die, leaving a round hole or ulcer. The first thought in your mind then is that just as an ulcer heals up anywhere else in the body, why shouldn't it heal up in the stomach? And so it would if you didn't have to eat.

Not that the food irritates it and keeps it from healing, but because your stomach juice in digesting the food gets into the ulcer and keeps it raw and sore. The first inch or two of the small intestine may likewise have an ulcer due to same cause.

Perhaps you have got the notion that you have an ulcer of the stomach and are worrying about it. You have no distress whatever in the stomach and yet an hour or so after you eat you feel a sort of burning or gnawing pain which gradually disappears.

Perhaps it continues until your next meal and you are surprised to find that the food relieves the pain entirely. Then an hour or so after the meal the same old pain comes back. The same time after each meal. Immediately you take the old fashioned remedy, some baking soda in water and you get relief in a few minutes.

Now if you haven't got this sort of pain you haven't an ulcer. Even if you have this kind of pain you may not have ulcer. But remember an ulcer will cause this type of pain every time. Ulcers are not uncommon, but many of them are very small and heal up themselves.

While surgery has been of help in severe cases, nevertheless the simple treatment of rest, soft foods, and the old fashioned baking soda, is curing a great many of the cases.

So if you have trouble with your stomach, keep a record of the food you eat, just where the pain is located, just how soon after eating the pain comes on, and whether it comes on regularly after each meal and so forth, whether or not food relieves the pain, and if baking soda also helps it. If there seems to be this "regularity," then see your family physician. By your records you will be able to help him in getting the correct diagnosis of your case. (Metropolitan Newspaper Service)

Savings Bank Thrift

By S. W. Straus, President of the American Society for Thrift.

IN ROUND numbers there are thirty million savings bank depositors in the United States today whose deposits amount to more than $17,000,000,000. Ten years ago the savings accounts in banks and trust companies numbered 12,000,000 and amounted to $8,000,000,000.

Perhaps the most significant feature of these figures, compiled by the savings bank division of the American Bankers' Association, is the increase of 141 per cent in the number of savings accounts.

They mean that in 1912 one out of every eight persons in the United States, so to speak, was the possessor of a savings bank account. Today one person out of four has money in a savings bank.

Thus we are able to see in concrete form some of the values of the campaigns of thrift education that have been in operation in this country during the last ten years or more.

Among children the progress has been even more rapid. Ten years ago the schools savings banks of the country were practically a negligible quantity. Today 2,000,000 school children have school savings bank deposits of $10,000,000.

These accomplishments cannot be valued intrinsically. The $10,000,000 saved by school children in pennies, nickels and dimes must be appraised from the standpoint of future generations turned to thrift; of splendid citizenship, clean lives, happy homes and a sound social order.

It is gratifying to note the progress of savings in this country. There is still much to be accomplished. Substantially there are 50,000,000 people in the United States today who are not savings bank depositors, but who could be if they were so educated and inspired.

America is in the midst of great prosperity and the outlook is promising. The writer recently returned from abroad where he saw many evidences of unemployment, unrest and unwholesome economic conditions. If the people of the United States could only see Europe today they would appreciate more deeply than is now the case how fortunate they are. Perhaps it would serve as a lesson to teach them how diligently they should save their money and safeguard their future by constant practices of thrift.

COMPANIONSHIP

There is a close companionship
In grass—
And summer lilies in the fields
I daily pass.

And fragrant clover, red and white;
Alfalfa blue;
The lovely things that live by brooks
Are merry comrades, too.

The little tinkling, twinkling leaves
Of cottonwoods—
The company of all the trees,
They fit my moods.

There's potency in fragile things:
In buds and blooms;
They fill my soul with happiness
And heal its wounds.

There's solace in a hillside mute
'Neath winter's will—
Life's sacred and mute and blighted forms
Speak to me still.

When doors and hearts are closed to me
Companionship I find
Within the clean, wide out of doors,
So intimate and kind.

Little Benny's
Note Book

by Lee Pope

Last night me and pop and ma was taking a walk, them taking it because it was a fine nite for a walk and me taking it on account of none of the fellows being around and me not having anything else to do, and we came to a hole crowd of people listening to some man standing there talking to them with his hat off, pop saying, Hello, who's this bird airing his views in public? Anyway, it proves this is a free country in spite of all the reports to the contrary. Let's stop a while and hear what he has to say.

Now Willyum, it's so common to stand on street corners in crowds like that, ma sed.

On the contrary it's a sine of broad mindedness, pop sed. Jest a few minits till we hear what on his mind besides hair, pop sed.

And we stopped to listen and the man was saying, I tell you men, the curse of war itself is not more fatal to mankind than the curse of tobacco.

O pichels, lets move on, pop sed. My goodness, Willyum, you dont know your own mind, now jest wait a little, this may be very instructive, ma sed. And we kept on waiting and the man sed, And now my friends, now that I've given you all my facts and figures, Im going to make a little test to see how many men in this audience are sensible men and how many will be fools to the end of their days. In other words Im going to pass around pledge cards, and whoever signs one will signify that he will forsake tobacco for a year.

Come on, that fellow's talking nonsense, pop sed. And he start ed to go, ma saying, Wy cant you stay a minit, Willyum, didnt you jest get done saying it was broad minded to stop and listen to wat a man has to say?

Everybody that spouts a lot of rubbish on a street corner is a boob, and anybody that stops and listens to it is a boob, pop sed. And he kept on wawking away and me and ma had to keep on with him.

Effects of Prohibition

Has prohibition actually cut out arrests for drunkenness and other causes in the United States or is the reverse true? The facts obtained by Robert E. Corradini, of New York, Research Secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism from chiefs of police in one hundred American cities lead Mr. Corradini to declare that there has been a substantial decrease in arrests for drunkenness and in arrests for all causes, and in the percentage of arrests for drunkenness in relation to arrests for all causes.

Mr. Corradini says that the cities from which he obtained the information run in size from 5,000 to 500,000, including New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia, and that the statistics cover thirty-one states, as follows: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin.

"I wrote to the chief of police of every city of 25,000 population or more in every state in the Union," said Mr. Corradini. "If there were only a few of such cities in any states I wrote to the chiefs of the smaller towns in such states in order to get the statistics of the three to five cities in each state."

"We have received some material from more than 250 cities, but we have received everything we asked complete for every year from 1910 to 1922, inclusive. This material was gathered principally for the Dutch Commission, consisting of P. Van der Meulen and N. A. DeVries, who recently made a tour of America, and will be put up by them to their government as an official report. However, they have given the same material to the World League Against Alcoholism, which assumes responsibility for its publication in this country and elsewhere.

"Pre-prohibition periods are compared with post-prohibition periods in all instances. The reports of the chiefs of police for these one hundred cities show that in the wet period of 1914, '15 and '16 there were in the 100 cities 323,790 arrests, or 17.5 per thousand persons. In the dry period covering 1920, '21 and '22 there were only 207,390 arrests for intoxication in the 100 cities, or 9.5 per thousand. This is a decrease of 116,400, or 36 per cent and the decrease came in spite of the fact that of a great increase in population. During the wet period the population of the cities was in round numbers 18,500,000. In the dry period it was in round numbers 21,000,000.

"In the same years, which we call the wet period, there were 54,200 arrests for all causes per thousand population in the 100 cities. In the dry period of three years there were 52,800 arrests for all causes per thousand persons in the one hundred cities.

"In the wet period 32.2 per cent of all arrests were those for intoxication, but in the dry period only 18.8 per cent of all arrests were made for intoxication.

"For the general period of 1910 to 1917, inclusive, the high percentage of arrests for drunkenness as compared with arrests for all causes was 35, and was always over 30. Since prohibition that per cent had dropped materially. It is now 22 per cent. In the years preceding prohibition, 17 of every 1,000 persons in these cities were arrested annually for drunkenness. Since prohibition, only 9 of every 1,000 are arrested annually for that offense.

"The greatest decrease of arrests for drunkenness as compared to arrests for all causes is in cities which range in size from one-half million to one million population, and is 21 per cent. In cities ranging from 5,000 to 250,000 the decrease is 10 per cent. In the cities between a quarter and half a million, seven in all, the decrease in the percentage of arrests for drunkenness in relation to the arrests for all causes is 8.3, which is the smallest in all the classes. In the three cities of New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia, the decrease in the percentage of arrests for drunkenness in relation to the arrests for all causes is 10 per cent. In this connection it should be said that the small decrease in Chicago is due largely to the fact that Chicago has no separate classification for arrests for intoxication. Such arrests go in with arrests for disorderly conduct.

"As might be imagined, there are cities in which there has been an increase in the number of arrests for all causes, due in large measure to the increased number of automobiles which make traffic violations possible. The greatest increase is in New York City, where before prohibition there were nearly always fewer than 200,000 arrests per year, but where since prohibition there have been as high as 300,000 arrests. In New York City, comparing wet 1916 with the dry period, however, there has been an increase of 60 per cent in traffic violations. In 1916 there were 41,000 such arrests but in the dry period these arrests have averaged 100,000 per year. Of course it is clear that that is due to the heavy increase in the number of automobiles.

"The analysis shows that since prohibition there has been a decrease in the offenses against family and children."

NO. 16—A RIDDLE FOR A COLD DAY

What do you think the next riddle was about, that the Riddle Lady asked in Riddle Town?

But there! What a very foolish question! As though you should know without hearing it!

Well, this was the riddle:
"I'm as soft as cotton and white as milk,
As thick as a blanket and smooth as silk,
I'm as merry as sleigh bells and gentle as rain,
And toboggan down roofs to your window pane.

"And I peep inside as you dream on your bed,
And wink my eyes at your cute little sled,
Then I quietly beckon and call to the others—
I've hundreds of rollicking, tumbling brothers.

"And then they come rushing, elbowing for room,
Sky-dust, as they're called, from the Old Woman's room;
And away we all fly to the road on the hill,
And cuddle together, and lie there still.

"In the morning you come with the girls and the boys
All shouting and laughing and making a noise,
And you stamp and you tramp and you slide on our back,

And soon you've a slippery, glistering track.

"Then you build a brave fort and you use us for walls,
And out of us also you make cannon balls;
And our soldiers are sturdy (we make famous ones),
With disphans for helmets and broomsticks for guns.

"We love all the children, their noise and their fun,
The thing that we dread is the hot shining sun,
When up in the sky his stern visage appears,
We are very unhappy and melt into tears.

"What is it?" asked the Riddle Lady.
"What hill was it you spoke of?" asked Jack and Jill. "Was it the one we fell down?"

"It's just the hill nearest to any little boy's house, said the Riddle Lady. "Or girl's either."

"I know the answer," cried Nancy, and at the same time Nick called out, "I know it, too! It's snow."

"Right!" said the Riddle Lady. "And the prize today is a sled. You'll have to go partners with it, my dears. But there is room on it for you both."
